

Nixon May Call On Thieu

BANGKOK (AP) — President Nixon will visit South Vietnam Wednesday and confer with President Nguyen Van Thieu, responsible sources reported today.

Details of Nixon's visit to the war zone were shrouded in security precautions, and White House spokesmen would give no confirmation. But neither would they deny the report.

It was expected that the President would be in Vietnam only a few hours.

Meanwhile, Nixon's top military and diplomatic officials in Saigon flew to Bangkok today to review the situation in Vietnam with the President.

After morning and luncheon conferences with Thailand's leaders on Southeast Asian security and U.S.-Thai relations, Nixon scheduled an afternoon review of the Vietnam war with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams Jr., commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam.

Nixon has said these talks would influence his thinking on further withdrawals of U.S. troops and his assessment of the significance of the battlefield lull in Vietnam, now in its sixth week.

Abrams told newsmen as he left Saigon the lull could be due to enemy preparations for another offensive, "lack of capability on the enemy's part," or an attempt by Hanoi to de-escalate the war, but "I don't think anyone really knows."

Thanat Khoman, Thai foreign minister, told newsmen after he and Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn met with Nixon that the American president "stressed the U.S. commitment to all obligations it has with Thailand" and promised to support and assist Thailand in providing the necessary equipment to realize its national goals.

Thanat said Thai officials emphasized to Nixon that "the Thai people are conscious of their responsibility to maintain their independence and freedom with their own strength." But Thanat said they also told him the Thai people hope that countries with mutual interests, like the United States, will help them with equipment adequate to fight aggression effectively.

Thanat said Nixon told them he was pleased with Thai policy and the measures Thailand has taken to defend itself against Communist aggression, particularly to protect villagers in remote areas.

Nixon's published schedule for Wednesday is blank until the evening, when Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn gives a dinner for the President and Mrs. Nixon.

White House spokesmen and American military sources remained silent on the possibility of a Vietnam trip during the day, but there were no denials of the rising speculation.

There was also a possibility that Nixon would drop in on one of the six big U.S. bases in Thailand to speak to the troops.

In 1891, a special detachment of Marines was assigned to the Pacific Squadron to assist in putting a stop to the wholesale destruction of seals in the Bering Sea by poachers operating out of season.

It's a Long Way Across U.S. on Foot

Many Sikeston citizens reported seeing a hippy walking through town and were somewhat alarmed.

What they didn't know was the man was Mark Johnson, Kitty Hawk, N. C., who is walking across the United States.

Johnson started his trip June 13 and expects to complete the journey within four months. His destination is San Francisco.

Johnson said he isn't a physical fitness enthusiast. He wants to see the country and the people.

Johnson's clothing is a pair of jeans, a dinun shirt, a pair of gum rubber shoes, a ruck sack to carry his extra clothes in, and a Australian bush hat to cover his head. His beard matches his attire of a rugged adventurer. A sign on his back informs passing motorists of the venture.

Johnson bathes whenever possible. He says he also washes his clothes once or twice a week. Though the beard may look unsightly Johnson says he grew it out of necessity rather than from spite. He says it is hard to shave every day and the beard looks better than having afternoon shadow on his face for two or three days a week.

Johnson lived in San Diego, where he graduated from school three years ago. His family then moved east.

Because he was a conscientious objector to war Johnson was allowed to stay out of the army but he serve a two years with New York State Psychological Institute.

It was during his two years at the institute that he got the idea to take the trip.

Upon arriving in California, where a brother lives, Johnson plans to get a job and put down roots. He is thinking about a trip to South America.

One Jail Escapee Captured Speeding Draws Fine Of $270

NEW MADRID -- Charles Robert Wright, apprehended yesterday in St. Louis after an escape from the New Madrid county jail, was returned to the jail last night by Flip Dees, deputy sheriff.

Wright, 30, of Sikeston, was arrested by St. Louis police at the Greyhound Bus Station, 801 North Broadway, shortly before he was to board a bus to Florida. Wright, Harold Eugene Hosford, 31, of Portageville and Albert Lewis Williams, 24, of New Madrid, escaped from New Madrid County jail Friday.

There are no clues to the location of Hosford and Williams, police said today.

Police said charges of jail break will be filed. At the time of his escape, Wright was being held on charges of burglary, larceny and possession of stolen property.

Williams escaped from the same jail June 5, 1968. He cut a hole in the roof in both breaks. He was apprehended last year through a tip to police by relatives. In the current jailbreak, a tip was given to police by an unidentified source.

Canoe Trip Restored By Hospitable Acts

By E. J. MAYES
State Editor

CHARLESTON -- An undercurrent stymied for four days the upriver canoe paddling trip of two University of Minnesota engineering students but, the gloom of disaster was brightened by hospitality, administered this time by Mr. and Mrs. Mark Rowling of Route 2, Charleston.

The 20-year-old students, Jim White, a junior architectural engineering major, and John Buether, a chemical engineer major, are attempting to turn in a Wrong Way Corrigan feat, by paddling upriver from New Orleans to Minneapolis.

Disaster struck as their canoe was overturned north of their starting point at Kenna, La., June 8, but they saved most of their supplies.

The treacherous waters of Newcombe Chute, in the Thompson Bend area of Mississippi county, proved more demanding as an undercurrent pull overturned the canoe with nothing remaining for the duo but a sleeping bag, a tent and a lone canoe paddle, which overturned the 16-foot, fibre glass boat Thursday night.

Mark Rowling found them, wet and discouraged in the Chute area and carried them home with him, cared for them for four days and assisted in replenishing supplies and outfits.

Additional help came from officials of the Crenshaw Discount Store at Sikeston, where some of the articles, required in re-outfitting, were donated by the store. Using money wired from their Bloomington homes, the boys bought a sleeping bag, camera, flashlight, AM and FM radios, camera and film and another canoe paddle, and, along with the donated articles, were shipshape for the Monday departure. They hope to land in a small river that joins the University of Minnesota campus, arriving there -- barring further mishap -- in time to register for their senior year, early in September.

Both boys are loud in their praise of "southern hospitality." "The Rowlings were as attentive to us as if we had been their own children and we plan to have our parents visit with them in Charleston next summer," they said. "All of the Charleston are folk have been most gracious, just as have southerners all along the route from Louisiana. And we are most appreciative and have a new concept of the southern sector of our nation."

Mrs. Rowling, who said she was "very much impressed with the behaviour of the two youths," added: "I have four boys of my own and would want someone to help them if they needed it. We've enjoyed having them and hope to see them, and their families, in the future," she said.

Rotarians See
Film on LSD

A moving picture film titled "LSD-25" was shown to the Rotary club last night at the Rustic Rock Inn and Police Detective Sergeant Dan Harmon of Cape Girardeau told about the risks taken by users of the illicit chemical.

He said that an LSD user might have a recurrence of "his trip" any time within four years after he took the mind distorting drug. Harmon said that the effects produced by the drug were unpredictable.

The speaker was introduced by Pat Jones, Police Patrolman Curtis Carbaugh of Cape Girardeau was a guest of the club.

Hayti Man
Wounded

HAYTI - A 50-year-old Hayti man, John Grant, is listed in fair condition at the Pemiscot Memorial Hospital with a self-inflicted bullet wound in his stomach, the Pemiscot County Sheriff's Department has reported.

Grant went to the hospital at 3:45 p.m. Sunday and hospital officials reported the shooting to law officials. A spokesman for the sheriff's department said it is not known if the shooting was intentional or accidental.

The sheriff's department also reported investigation is continuing in the burglary of a Pemiscot County resident's home last week. Homer Malagueh of Portageville Route 2 reported his house had been broken into on July 24, and a television set, radio, window fan, shotgun and shells were stolen.

11 Juveniles
Apprehended
After Breakin

CHARLESTON -- Eleven juveniles were apprehended by police at 7 p.m. yesterday after entering Lincoln School agriculture building.

Ben Stampey, policeman, recognized one juvenile as the 11 fled. He obtained the other 10 names after one was arrested.

The youths will appear at 7 p.m., Monday conference with city police and a juvenile officer. The conference will decide if charges will be pressed or if the youths will be committed to parental supervision.

Last night's break-in at Lincoln School was the ninth since July 8. The youths apparently entered through windows broken before yesterday.

Parents Asked to Teach Safety

Police Chief Arthur Bruce appealed today for parents to instruct their children about bicycle safety. Bruce said the matter of a child's life is involved and it should be treated with the seriousness of that.

There have been numerous recent accidents involving children on bikes and automobiles.

Contrary forecasts came from an industry spokesman, declining to be identified, who said retailers will not drop prices significantly because of what he sees as small or short-term declines in live cattle prices.

"Really, I don't think anybody in this country can ever again expect to see $1 round steak again, and certainly not less than about $1.39 for sirloin," the industry man said.

Last December consumers paid an average of $1.20 a pound for choice sirloin steak. In June, after months of rising cattle prices, the same meat cost Mrs. Average Housewife $1.40.

Retail beef prices made their biggest jump during June when there was a 4.5 per cent gain in the cost of meats, poultry and fish. The government statistics showed a gain of six-tenths of one per cent in the cost of living during the month.

Why the big boost in beef prices? Economists cite inflation and the rising demand among beefhungry consumers who ate an average of 110-pounds per person last year, compared with 86 pounds in 1960.

Paarlberg discounts what some observers believe is the heart of the beef-price situation -- the failure of cattlemen to turn out as much beef as needed.

A soon-to-be-published report is expected to show beef production for the first half of 1969 at or near the level of last year despite a larger population and demand.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
A WAR OF THEIR OWN

No one in his right mind can argue against a "War on Poverty". We would all be the beneficiaries of a victory over human want and need. Our main disagreement has been with the manner in which this "war" has been waged during the past several Administrations. We have witnessed much bureaucratic waste, support of freeloaders, pocketlining and patronage. In most instances the public has had little say in the distribution of tax dollars.

Unfortunately, we cannot end these governmental programs despite their waste and inefficiency; too often voluntary, private programs have either been too little or too disorganized to serve as an argument against government interference. This is a harsh reality. Many conservative theorists espouse private projects that could be incorporated into the war on poverty, but they make no attempt to begin the campaign. Apathy has been the foot-in-the-door for the government's encroachment into the private sector's affairs.

A release from the Office of Economic Opportunity on July 7 cited an example of private involvement that would more effectively serve the legitimate need. Two recent graduates of a New York City school read of the plight of the poor in Appalachia. They approached high school students in the New York area and soon had assembled a small army of volunteers. Several radio stations gave them air time to present their message to the people. The New York Daily News ran a feature article on the project. The Red Cross helped them contact a local Community Action group. A New York freight line donated a van and driver to deliver to Kentucky the two tons of food and clothing collected in the first two months of the drive. All were private organizations except the Red Cross and Community Action.

The newly formed group is planning to incorporate and expand its programs. We hope they continue to grow through use of private resources. This type of cooperative, voluntary action is what we need to combat poverty.

WHY DON'T CHAS - While on the subject of letters, I receive a number of them (unsigned) giving everyone in general, and me in particular, old Ned for doing or not doing something they think we should or should not do.

Here's the gist of some of them, with my comments in italics:

"How come you put my name in the paper when I was arrested? I didn't want it known?" - Things are tough all over. All I can tell you is that we don't make the news, we just print it.

"I saw a businessman at 3:30 in the morning with a woman in his car. What was he doing out at that hour with a strange woman?" - What were you doing out at that hour and what makes you think the woman was strange?

"Why don't some good honest people ever run for office?" - Why don't you?

"The other day I got into a big argument with a neighbor and I defended The Democrat-News because you are putting out a real, good newspaper." - Bless you. "My son wants to enlist in the Marines. Do you think he should?" - Yup. Semper Fidelis, you know.

"You're always bragging about Notre Dame's football teams. If they're so good how come Michigan State and Southern California beat them? - Can't win 'em all.

"I get mad every time I come to Marshal to shop because I always get a parking ticket. That guy on the scooter is really an eager - beaver. Why don't he ticket the double-parkers once in a while, too?" - I dunno. "Do you think the mail service is better today than it was 50 years ago?" - Nope.

"My daughter recently gave birth to a baby daughter and I think it's the most beautiful baby in the world. I think you ought to run a picture of it in the paper." - Aw, comon grandma.

"I think newspaper people are too nosey. Why do they have to know everything?" - We're nosey.

"You're a Democrat, I know, but sometimes you could like a Republican. What's the matter with you?" - Nuthin. I know a lot of Republicans who could like Democrats.

"Do you think LBJ will go down in history as one of our greatest presidents?" - No suh, ah don't.

"I am disgusted with all of the young men running around with long hair. How can this be corrected?" - Haircuts.

"When you first came to Marshal you write that you really liked the town. Do you still feel the same way?" - Shore do.

"I am not an old fogey but I sure can't stand to see the young girls running around in miniskirts. What do you think about this problem?" - What problem? You are an old fogey.

"I notice more and more people being arrested in Marshal for drunken driving these days. What is the reason for this?" - Booze.

"I am a veteran of World War II and from what I have been reading it seems to me that the soldiers today have it a lot easier than the World War II servicemen." - You must be kidding.

"There's certain people in this town who can get by with anything. How come?" - Ask those certain people.

"My friends and I have been discussing Marshall's city government and it is our opinion there's much room for improvement. We believe a step in that direction would be to hire a city administrator?" - Join the club.

"Do you think bald-headed men should wear head pieces?" - Doesn't make no never mind to me, baldy.

"Somebody told me it's easier to play golf left handed than right handed. Is this true?" - Some lefty has been given you a snow job.

"Is it true that Eskimos rub noses rather than kiss? I think that's stupid." - I have never hobnobbed with a stupid Eskimo. - Peter McCoy in the Marshall Democrat-News.

WHEN THEY COME HOME

When Johnny comes home again, from Viet Nam, he is going to have to learn a new way of life. Over there, our GI's found out that a Communist is an enemy and, if he wasn't killed, he killed you. They learned, the hard way, how Communists make it a practice to disguise themselves to work their way into strategic places, and they became well aware of the damage and atrocities Communists commit, given the least opportunity.

But these horrible lessons have taught Americans at home precious little concerning the real nature of communism. It is overdue that we learn, and lesson number one is that a Communist in this country is just as treacherous, just as venomous, and just as deadly as a Communist in Viet Nam.

Despite this obvious fact, these enemy agents are not only tolerated and listened to, they enjoy all the rights and privileges of citizenship, reinforced through a succession of decisions of the United States Supreme Court. They are allowed to operate freely, conspire without hindrance, agitate, hold jobs in industries where our national security is involved, and even to teach in our schools. Anyone who expresses alarm at this incredible state of affairs is denounced as a "McCarthyite," the ultimate epithet in the Communist lexicon - prized particularly by the Communists because they invented it.

Our returning GI's may have trouble understanding this weird state of affairs. To them a Communist is a Communist, whether he is butchering innocent peasants in a village in South Viet Nam, directing a riot in a large American city, singing folk songs with a political message, or teaching political science on some college campus.

It will take some doing to make our GI's change their ideas about Communists being the enemy. It may be that they'll have to be given a special brainwashing course, and paraded through the streets in various cities across the country with yokes about their necks labeled "extremist."

An alternative would be to have the members of the U. S. Supreme Court spend a few months in South Viet Nam learning some elemental things about Communist tactics first hand. So far, the Court has specialized in granting liberties to the enemy, while denying the rest of us the right to defend our own intelligently.

What has become of the old fashioned man who had a "stage" party every time his wife left town?

When a man catches a bad cold, it makes him wonder what use the women get out of the little piece of lace and linen a woman carries for a handkerchief.

"The little sense I have cost me dearly," a Sikeston man said. "When I think how I have been punished for my foolishness, I hope my sons will have more sense than I have had, and not make the same mistakes."

Skeleton in the Closet. In Columbus, Ohio, a deputy sheriff saw John Dyer carefully signal before making a right turn in his automobile, stopped him to present one of the city's safety awards, discovered he had no driver's license, hauled him into court.

The man whos always prepared never seems to have anything happen to him.

No Exceptions. In Southport, England, the city council decided that James Clarkson, a 35-year-old laborer, should be docked 55 cents for his 1½-hour absence from his job at the city wharves, even though he had spent the time rescuing a man trapped in a sandbank.

July 29, 1786 - The Pittsburgh Gazette was established - the first newspaper published west of the Allegheny mountains.

An increased number of motorists are using their cars to transport boats on boat trailers to the vacation and fishing area in Missouri, it was noted today by Colonel E.L. (Mike) Hockaday, the Superintendent of the State Highway Patrol.

"Driving with a trailer is vastly different from operating a car alone," Colonel Hockaday stated. "Special skills are required of drivers to safely pull their rigs in traffic. I urge motorists to acquire these skills and to be extra careful when pulling trailers."

The Patrol Superintendent pointed out certain driving skills motorists should exercise when towing their boats and trailers. 1. Start slowly and allow more time for other traffic to clear before moving onto a highway. 2. Position your car and trailer farther from the curb than usual before making a right turn. Keep well toward the center of your lane when rounding curves. 3. A towed vehicle will reduce your acceleration capability in overtaking and passing another vehicle. Allow more distance to pass safely and return to the proper lane. 4. Maintain a greater following distance when pulling a boat and trailer than with your car alone. 5. Your speed will be slower than that of many others on the highway. Special attention, therefore, should be given to drivers desiring to pass. When a large vehicle passes you a large air mass movement will tend to move your trailer to the right. A slight steering adjustment at this time will help the situation.

"Besides exercising the skills necessary to safely transport a trailer on the highway," Hockaday continued, "motorists should also make sure their trailers are securely hitched and that they have good, properly inflated tires."

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON-Members of President Nixon's staff are congratulating themselves that a very great public relations gamble paid off. They now admit that there was some doubt inside the White House as to whether the moon mission might have a mishap at the last minute and leave the President red-faced in the Mid-Pacific, presented with the alternative of abandoning is trip around the world or continuing it under very embarrassing circumstances.

This possibility was frankly considered before the final decision was announced. The men who led the argument that Nixon take the trip were Bob Haldeman, the former J. Walter Thompson advertising expert who likes to wrap policies up in Madison Avenue packages. He was supported by Press Secretary Ron Ziegler and Aid Dwight Chapin, two other hotshots from J. Walter Thompson. They argued that the publicity to be gained from Nixon's identifying himself with the moon trip far outweighed the risks.

But more cautious White House advisers checked with NASA. There they got the optimistic opinion that the moon project would succeed, that the President would not be left red-faced in mid-pacific. NASA officials further advised that the most crucial part of the whole trip would be when Armstrong and Aldrin set their lunar module down on the moon and that, if at the last minute they did not make it, President Nixon would have time to change his plans before he started for the Pacific.

NASA officials, however, did not go along with some of the other ideas of the ad men around Nixon. In fact there was a definite and rather unpleasant series of clashes between them.

-Hasale Over Publicity- The first came when space agency officials planned to recognize the late President got the impression that the Kennedy's part in fixing the American policy or reaching the moon, by having the astronauts read Kennedy's vigorous statement made on May 25, 1969. It was to be read immediately after they stepped out on the moon's surface.

But President Nixon said no. He also vetoed a NASA plan to name the lunar capsule "The John F. Kennedy." Instead, he proposed the names "eagle" and "Columbia" for the two space craft.

Both of these orders were transmitted to space officials by Bob Haldeman, the former J. Walter Thompson executive. He also conceived the plaque which was signed by Nixon and the three Astronauts and placed on the moon. NASA officials at first resisted the idea of this plaque. Finally Haldeman brusquely advised them that the plaque was the President's wish.

That was that. It was Frank Shakespeare, the new chief of the U.S. information agency, who concocted the idea of having Nixon put a phone call through to the two astronauts immediately after they landed on the moon.

NASA officials grumbled privately about this, complained that it identified Nixon with the lunar landing despite the fact that he had never supported it, either in the election campaign or at any time before he became President. However, Nixon not only liked the idea but wanted to go further and narrate the moon walk. He wanted to have the Astronauts give him the first description of the moon by telephone. He then would accept this on behalf of the American people.

However, space officials finally talked the president into limiting his telephone calls to only two-and-one-half minutes. This part of the ceremony, incidentally, left a bad impression overseas, even though trimmed down. Many foreigners got the impression that the President was trying to horn in on the Astronauts' glory. It has already been reported that Nixon also wanted to dine with the astronauts on the eve of their departure. Despite resistance from NASA, Nixon seriously considered going ahead with the dinner anyway, and was only dissuaded at the last minute after a firm statement by the NASA physician.

-Nixon Loves Publicity- The final hassle between the White House and the space agency occurred regarding the President's proposal to fly to the Pacific to welcome the astronauts after they splashed down. Space agency officials didn't like this either. Though they had given their frank advice that the moon trip would be successful they later suggested tactfully that it would be better if the President did not fly to the carrier hornet.

Nixon simply ignored the suggestion. He sent word that he intended to be present.

In Indonesia, diplomats are not unaccustomed to President Nixon's love of publicity.

When he came through Jakarta as Vice President, the American embassy staged a reception for him. It is normally hot in Jakarta, and this day was especially hot. And a small army of TV technicians which came out to the American embassy to set up their Kleig lights to interview Nixon made it even hotter.

Mrs. Hugh Cumming, wife of the American Ambassador, was concerned for the comfort of her honored guest and told the TV technicians they could not operate in the embassy.

When Vice President Nixon arrived she apologized for the heat, but added that it could have been worse.

"There were a lot of television cameras here," she said. "However, I sent them away."

The Vice President looked much less unhappy. He rushed to the telephone and invited the TV men back to the embassy.

STATISTICS WITH A STORY
According to the Edison Electric Institute, as of the middle of 1968, a total of 148.8 million kilowatts of new electric generating capacity was on order and scheduled for operation during the second half of 1968 and later years. A substantial part of the new generating capacity will consist of nuclear plants. It is a safe bet that not one person in a thousand considered the report as having any bearing on his personal well-being.

Electricity is something that we assume will be there when we need it. But back of the bare statistical story of kilowatts are the new homes, factories and businesses that appear by the millions of every year - all expecting to have electric power at the flip of a switch. And that power will be there - power that was on the drawing boards of utility companies five or ten years ago.

One of the nation's largest investor-owned utilities* has issued some figures on building persons watched the two Apollo 11 astronauts place the American Flag on the moon during 1968. And the population of the company's service area increased nearly 140,000 persons from mid-1967 to mid-1968. This California CBS Network estimated, utility was investing hundreds of millions of dollars for the world's expansion long before the ground was broken for any of the 58,500 new dwellings that came on its lines in 1968.

It takes a long time and a lot of money to build an electric plant, nuclear or conventional. The investor-owned electric industry's ability to plan ahead with flexibility, imagination and foresight is the basis upon which the industry has established a record of near 100 per cent reliability in providing energy when and where it is needed.

Little Richard came running into the house crying. I noticed a good-sized bruise on the top of his head.

"What fell on your head?" I asked sympathetically.

"I did," he sobbed.

Doc. Duncan Says

Radio sez there' gonna bring back some rocks from the moon. So' our wise men can find out the origin of the earth. Gramps sez some of them men and school teachers don't believe what the Bible sez.

H.L. Hunt Says

The American achievement of putting men on the moon pointed up more forcefully than anything else could have, the superiority of the personal enterprise system, under which men and women are slaves, doing the bidding of their masters.

An audience around the world estimated at 528 million persons watched the two Apollo 11 astronauts place the American Flag on the moon during 1968. And the population of the company's service area increased nearly 140,000 persons from mid-1967 to mid-1968. This California CBS Network estimated, utility was investing hundreds of millions of dollars for the world's expansion long before the ground was broken for any of the 58,500 new dwellings that came on its lines in 1968.

By contrast with the overwhelmingly successful Apollo flight, in which Americans not only landed safely on the moon, but walked on its surface, ate, slept, and obtained samples of lunar rock to bring back with them, the Russian attempt to put even an unmanned object on the moon failed miserably. The weekend of July 18 was certainly a dismal one for Communists, both foreign and domestic.

In these days when good work, accomplishment and achievement are under attack from the American left-wing as being the tools of "the establishment" (whatever that means in Communist jargon) the feat of Apollo 11 emphasizes the positive results of courage, ingenuity, competition, personal enterprise, and, most of all, freedom. As a result, every American who loves his country stands a little taller and fees a lot prouder today. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

REDS' NEW FLAG: The Oakland Black Panthers' Central Party security guard directed Committees Set to Launch New by a CP functionary. National 'People's Party'.

Washington, D.C.: Black guns. Fistfights were broken up. Panthers now believe that red is quickly and removed swiftly. The beautiful. Slowly their party is being removed swiftly. The merging with the Communist agenda was tight and inflexible. Party, USA. Their leaders There was no real debate. No crisscross the land to confer with unscheduled speeches were each other. Their central permitted from the floor.

committees meet jointly and in subseuons to dramatize the party congress, the theory was new est in revolutions, planted long and laboriously. demonstrations and avant-garde community action.

Their strategy calls for the formation of a national "antifascist committee," the launching of local chapters and finally the creation of a third party, a united front party, a "new beginning" party -- the "People's Party."

Both need each other. The Black Panthers are short on cash and long on youth; short on organizational talent and long on avowedly bloody gung ho; short on members and headquarters and long on hunger for a piece of the action inside politics and labor.

The Communist Party is long on cash and short on youth. Its organizers are the world's best. Its strategic sensitivities are keener than a moon-planted seismograph. Despite its talent, the CPUSA has been bereft of any piece of the action inside labor or national politics since the '40s.

Thus, it isn't what they see in each other -- it's what they need in each other which gravitates them together.

The Black Panthers can put the strong flesh and powerful muscle on the aging and withering Communist skeleton. The Communist Party can offer a regional apparatus in 23 districts from Brooklyn to Waikiki Beach.

They surfaced officially as comrades in their first joint venture, the three-day National Conference for a United Front Against Fascism, run in Oakland, Calif., from July 19 to July 21.

Their next venture is for massive, repeat massive, demonstration in Chicago. It's scheduled for Sept. 24. The Communists must have provided a heavy red political wine -- for they are talking of putting "a hundred thousand demonstrators into the streets."

For all this there is evidence. The Oakland conference was run by the Communist Party as though it were a pigskin in Joe Namath's hands. This was by mutual and unanimous agreement between the Panthers' and Communists' central committees. The Oakland Black Panthers' Central Party security guard directed Committees Set to Launch New by a CP functionary. National 'People's Party'.

"Delegates" were frisked for Washington, D.C.: Black guns. Fistfights were broken up. Panthers now believe that red is quickly and removed swiftly. The beautiful. Slowly their party is being removed swiftly. The merging with the Communist agenda was tight and inflexible. Party, USA. Their leaders There was no real debate. No crisscross the land to confer with unscheduled speeches were each other. Their central permitted from the floor.

As though at an all-Soviet party congress, the theory was planted long and laboriously. demonstrations and avant-garde community action.

Dr. Aptheker spoke at such Castro-like length that the young Panthers squirmed, screeched and then sat down when they were told to be quiet. There was no doubt that that the Communist Party was in control -- with the advised consent of the Panther leaders.

Around the floor were other united frontists -- the SDS (now tightly in Soviet-line Communist hands), the Youth Against War and Fascism, and Veterans and Reservists to End the War in Vietnam. As in days of old -- atavistic evidence that Communists' tactics never change.

virtually all took discipline like their kids in the communes. Their thing and taking pot. It was decided to launch the National Committees to Combat Fascism. At later conventions, probably in late October or early November, this will be the base for the new political party.

Its regional chapters, meanwhile, will be fighting for community control of big city police departments.

Thus everybody gets a piece of the action. And the Communist Party USA gets its money's worth.

Actually it could not buy what the Panthers can give them -- a new life inside the labor movement and the big mills and factories of the land.

There is no doubt that the black caucuses rapidly are becoming powerful in some sections such as Detroit, Pittsburgh, and the big Eastern cities. There is no doubt that they can disrupt production for days with angry picket lines. They have at Chrysler, at Ford and other big plants.

There is no doubt that, skillfully directed by veteran labor agitators -- Communist labor specialists, the Panthers can become a force on the industrial front in a few years.

And this, after all, is the Communist Party's reason for existence -- infiltration of the American industrial complex, especially in this astronautic age.

So they think it's all beautiful, too.

Johnnie, St. Louis Trained Chinese Chef

Johnnie Ham has been the Chinese chef at the Rustic Rock for five years, with the exception of a few months last winter, when he worked at Luber's, also in Sikeston.

Johnnie was born in southern China, and came to the United States in 1935. He joined his father in St. Louis that year, and attended public school, while working evenings as a waiter and apprentice chef.

His father was a waiter, and Johnnie just went naturally into the restaurant business. He worked for 15 years as a waiter, and the low pay encouraged him to become a full-time chef.

We asked Johnnie how he happened to come to Sikeston, from so many years in St. Louis. He said,

"I was in St. Louis, see, and my brother, he was at Harper's in Cairo. You know Harper's? And he (the brother) wanted to go to his family in Hong Kong, for a visit. He asked me to leave my job in St. Louis and come to his job while he was gone."

So Johnnie spent seven months in Cairo, during his brother's absence. Mr. Armstrong, an owner at the Rustic Rock, ate at Harper's one night, and after tasting Johnnie's delicious cooking, "He came back to the kitchen, and said 'Johnnie, would you like to come to work in Sikeston, when your brother comes back?'"

Johnnie said "yes," and it is Sikeston's good fortune. He's been cooking for 15 years, and says it is a permanent thing. He did tell us, however, that his wife does the cooking at home.

The Hams have three children, and only Alice, 19, is still at home. The family is international, since, Wilford, 32, lives with his wife and three children in Canada, and Shu Ping, 26, lives in Hong Kong with her husband and four children. Noticing the international names, we asked Johnnie why his children don't all have Chinese names.

"American names," he told us, "Wilfred lives in Canada, and has taken a Canadian name. Shu Ping lives in Hong Kong, and has a Chinese name. And, Alice, you know that is American."

In the restaurant, the fresh vegetables Johnnie cooks come from St. Louis, but are grown, usually, in southern California. Those crisp, tender bean sprouts, however, come from Johnnie's storeroom, behind the kitchen. The mungo beans are shipped dry, from Taiwan. Then, Johnnie measures and washes them, adds a measured amount of water, and in a few days, they are sprouted mungo beans. The beans have to be watched, washed, turned and soaked, but last of all, they are cooked and eaten. Delicious!

In the store-room, there are mushrooms, oyster sauce, bamboo shoots, soy sauce, tea from Formosa, and the beans. And more mouth-watering foods from the Orient. Some are from Japan, some from Formosa, and some from Hong Kong.

Johnnie's father, who drew Johnnie into the business, is now retired in Hong Kong. But Johnnie's brother is still in Cairo, and Johnnie is here in Sikeston, delighting guests of the Rustic Rock who like delightful, delicious Chinese food.

Ann Landers

Whose Name For The Baby-Husband or Lover

Dear Ann Landers: My brother died two months ago. His widow has asked me for advice and I don't know what to tell her. The question is in regard to her 19-year-old son. He wants to get married.

The boy is 4-F so he is not worried about the Army. He has been kicked out of two colleges so he is not worried about his education. (He can't get in anywhere). He works in his grandfather's business (when he works) so he is not worried about a job. Here is the question: The boy wants his mother to advance him $3,000 against his inheritance so he can get married and take his bride to Honolulu on a honeymoon. His father left him $20,000 but the will states that the first payment of $5,000 is to be made on the boy's 21st birthday. The second payment comes due in 1974. Subsequent payments of $2,000 are to be made at two year intervals.

The boy keeps badgering his mother and repeating, "I don't want a gift, all I want is an advance on what is legally mine. I will pay you the $3,000 in 1971 when I get the $5,000."

What should she tell him? She's leaving it up to me. — Keeper of the Keys

Dear Keeper: She should tell him no. Her husband knew what he was doing when he wrote his will in such a way that his son would not come into any money until he was 21. All she need say is, "Sorry, we're going to leave things as dad wanted them."

Dear Ann Landers: I have a neighbor who thinks I have the most beautiful garden in town. She can hardly wait until the flowers are in full bloom so she can ask permission to "pick a few."

This woman insists she cannot grow flowers because her children need a place to play. You should have seen the look she gave me yesterday when I refused to allow her to pick a bouquet for her company table. Her face was so full of hate it ruined my day.

It takes a great deal of patience, weeding, spraying, watering and luck to grow beautiful flowers. Am I selfish because I want to enjoy them as long as possible?

There must be countless readers in your audience who have this same problem. Will you kindly give us a word or two? — Wilfred Friendship

Dear Friend: Some people make a living selling flowers.

Only two Sikeston teams survived first round action, those being the top two teams of the six team league.

Anchor's Danny Breedlove allowed Vanduser only one hit through six innings before giving up four and a pair of runs in the top of the seventh after his teammates had given him a 2-0 lead in the last of the sixth inning.

Paul Dollar Doubled in

Ron Bryant scored the winning run for Vanduser after reaching first on a hit, he stole second and advanced to third on a wild pitch before advancing home on Pobst's single off reliever Jim McDowell.

First basemen Johnny Advance led a 7-hit Vanduser attack with two safeties.

Cards Edge Padres

Vada Pinson and Billy Williams attended to their private business in plenty of time to become good company men when the chips were down.

Pinson ran his hitting streak to 19 games with a fourth inning single Monday night, then came up with the deciding hit and saving defensive play in the St. Louis Cardinals' 2-1 victory over San Diego.

Williams also singled in the fourth, for a 17-game hitting skein, before stroking the winning single in a two-run 10th inning rally that sent the Chicago Cubs past San Francisco 4-3 in the day's only other game.

The action picks up in both the National and American Leagues today, with 17 games listed on the schedule.

In the NL, Houston is at New York, Atlanta at Philadelphia and Los Angeles at Pittsburgh for two-night doubleheaders, San Diego at St. Louis and Montreal at Cincinnati for single night games and San Francisco at Chicago in the afternoon.

New York visits Oakland, Boston is at California, Washington at Seattle and Baltimore at Kansas City in AL night games while Detroit plays a two-night twin bill at Minnesota and Chicago visits Cleveland for another pair under lights.

Pinson matched the NL's season-high hitting streaks, shared by Pittsburgh's Matty Alou and Willie Stargell, with his fourth inning single, then doubled to score Julian Javier in the sixth and give St. Louis a 2-0 lead.

Cardinals' rookie Chuck Taylor blanked the Padres until the eighth, when they scored on an error by Javier, an infield hit by Ed Spiezio and a double by Roberto Pena.

An intentional walk filled the bases with one out, but Pinson gloved Nate Colbert's foul fly down the right field line and fired to the plate to nail pinch runner John Spin, completing a rally-killing double play.

Javier cracked a leadoff homer off loser Dick Kelley in the first inning and singled ahead of Pinson's RBI double in the sixth, helping Taylor gain his third victory without a loss.

Juan Marichal walked pinch hitter Willie Smith with two out in the 10th, and Don Kessinger, Glenn Beckert and Williams followed with singles, giving the Cubs their first Wrigley Field victory over the Giants' ace in five years.

The Giants overcame a 2-0 deficit on Willie McCovey's two-run homer off Bill Hands in the eighth and took a 3-2 lead in the top of the 10th.

Symington Will Address Graduates

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- U. S. Sen. Stuart Symington, Democrat from Missouri, will speak Saturday at the summer commencement exercises at Southeast Missouri State College.

Almost 300 seniors and graduate students will receive degrees during the ceremonies, which will be held outdoors on the terraces east of Academic Hall at 6:30 p.m.

The number of graduates will not be known until Saturday. Final examinations will not be given until Friday the last day of the college's summer term.

In case of rain, the graduation program will be moved to the auditorium of Academic Hall. Senator Symington will be introduced by Dr. Mark Scully, president of Southeast Missouri State.

The commencement will be preceded by an alumni reception for the summer graduating class from 4-5:30 p.m. in Memorial Hall on the campus.

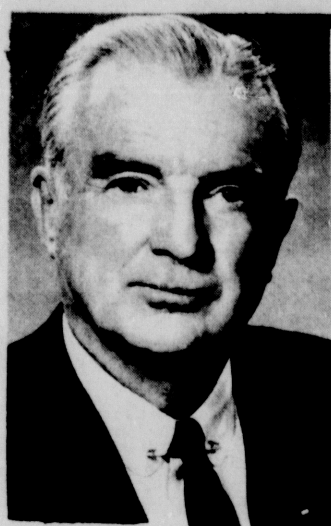

Now in his third term in the Congress, Senator Symington has not spoken on the Southeast Missouri State campus in recent years. His last appearance at the college was to introduce one of this country's original astronauts, John Glenn.

Senator Symington, a former president of Emerson Electric Manufacturing Company in St. Louis, first saw government service in 1945 as an appointee of former president Harry S. Truman.

From 1945-1952, he held six appointed positions under Truman. He served as chairman of the Surplus Property Board, administrator of the Surplus Property Administration, assistant secretary of war for air, secretary of the Air Force, chairman of the National Security Resources Board and administrator of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

In Congress Senator Symington is a member of the Joint Economic Committee and the Senate's Aeronautical and Space Sciences Committee, Armed Services Committee, and Foreign Relations Committee.

ARMED FORCES

NEW OCS ENLISTMENT PROGRAM

The U. S. Army has a new enlistment program for college students. Sergeant SFC Steve L. Sullivan, local Army recruiter, announced that effective immediately, college students with at least 60 semester hours can enlist in the Army for Officer Candidate School (OCS).

The new program allows young men with either 60 semester, 60 trimester or 90 quarter-master hours of unduplicated college level studies to enlist under the new program.

Graduates of accredited junior colleges and those having sufficient credit hours from an accredited degree-granting institution are eligible to enlist for OCS. Prior to this only individuals with a baccalaureate or higher degree could apply for the OCS program from outside the active Army.

The total training period for OCS, from enlistment to commissioning, lasts about 10-14 months. The training is divided into three categories, basic, advanced and formal OCS. After receiving a commission, the remaining active duty obligation is 24 months.

Additional information about the new OCS enlistment option can be obtained from Sergeant SFC Steve Sullivan at 339 Broadway, Room 154 or by telephoning 335-9052.

Taxes to Be Spent

Growing Farm Pests

WASHINGTON (AP) - Mass rearing of farm product pests seems an unlikely way to spend tax money, but that is just what the government has agreed to do, with help from the University of Missouri.

The purpose of the studies to be conducted at the university is development of low cost, artificial diets for-of all things - grain moths, whose larvae are voracious devourers of stored grains.

Latest in Cotton Fabrics Displayed

DALLAS - Opening of a library where manufacturers and designers can view the latest in cotton fabrics was one of the highlights of the fall meeting of the board of trustees of Cotton Producers Institute.

The ceremonies at the Dallas Apparel Mart followed a busy day in which the trustees considered recommendations for a wide range of cotton research and promotion activities for 1970.

Representing Missouri on the 51-member CIP Board are: John F. Summitt, Cardwell, and W. C. Bryant, Dorena.

The fabric library is the second to open, following enthusiastic acceptance of the initial unit in New York. With the opening of a third library later this month in Los Angeles, designers and manufacturers in the three major U. S. apparel manufacturing centers will have ready access to the latest in cotton fabrics for the coming year.

According to Missouri trustees, "The new library will serve as liaison between mills and the clothing trade and will afford apparel designers and manufacturers the opportunity to see a cross section of all types of cotton that are on the market without sales pressure."

When a designer or manufacturer expresses interest in a fabric, he is given a card indicating the name of the mill, the sales representative, and the mill fabric number of his selection. A similar card is then mailed to the mill to inform them of the visit to the library and the interest expressed in their product.

In addition to special displays of seasonal fabrics, the facility will offer a permanent index and file on all categories of domestically manufactured cottons along with sample swatches to illustrate fabric construction, staple weaves, and treated materials. Some 5,000 fabric samples from the spring lines of over 100 textile manufacturers and mills are included in the library.

The new Dallas facility is only one of the many projects supported by the $10-million program of research and promotion. Trustees indicated significant progress already is being realized through research in controlling insects, diseases, weeds, and other problem areas that cut growers' profits or reduce markets for cotton. Giant strides are being made, they stated, on developing improved consumer products. In the area of promotion, they estimated funds are being virtually doubled through cooperative agreements with manufacturers and retailers.

Trustees indicated a deep sense of responsibility in operating a program of this size and stated every effort is being made to insure the most effective job possible. During executive sessions of the meeting, trustees heard an interim report from one of the nation's leading management consulting firms which is conducting an in-depth study of cotton research and promotion programs and CIP's whole market development strategy. The management study will be completed in the fall at which time recommendations on the

OldCatalog At Library

JACKSON -- It is not like the usual library book, but it is interesting. It is the - 1922 Golden Jubilee Montgomery Ward Catalog, which was added to the collection of the Riverside Regional Library, a second copy has been placed in the Perryville branch of the library.

It is Unbelievable! - a man's two-trouser suit (with vest) for $12.95. A woman's polo coat with fur collar for $7.98. And really a dollar watch for 96 cents. A wedding ring, 14 Karat Gold, $5.85 - That was the time to get married! A big cream separator cost $75.00.

The catalog is a reprint; if these things could be bought now it would be a source of valuable antiques.

The regional board met Thursdays. The new audio-visual catalog was reviewed. It lists 130 new films leased for a year from Encyclopedia Britannica Film Corporation, in addition to 156 films available through the Missouri Libraries Film Co-Op, plus others, 340 films owned by the library. While all audio-visual materials are kept at the course of future programs will be submitted to the Board.

The board will meet Aug. 28. The summer story hour program closed Thursday; it was conducted at all branches and at the Regional Library Sikeston. Mrs. Bob Gones presented the program in Cape Girardeau and Perry Counties, member libraries in Sikeston and Scott county

Sometime around midnight Edward Kennedy's car with Mary Jo Kopechne as a passenger plunged off the narrow bridge on Chappaquiddick Island (1). Kennedy, uncertain how he escaped from the car, unsuccessfully sought to free Miss Kopechne before returning to the Chappaquiddick cottage (2), from where he returned to Edgartown. Ferry attendants say he did not use the ferry. The following morning, two young fishermen spotted the half-submerged car (3). Kennedy and two companions crossed by ferry from Edgartown to the Chappaquiddick dock (4) where a ferry attendant, about 9:45 a.m., asked if they had heard about the accident. Kennedy returned immediately to Edgartown and went to the police.

Golda Meir of Israel

AS ISRAEL'S FOREIGN MINISTER, Golda Meir came in contact with many of the world's leaders. At top left, she is seen with U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld and Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion in 1959. A year later, she went to New York and was embraced by Eleanor Roosevelt at a U.N. reception for delegates. In 1962, Mrs. Meir met with President Kennedy, right, at Palm Beach, Fla. In background is Myer Feldman, presidential assistant on the Near East. No. 10 Downing St. got a call from the motherly minister in 1964 when she spoke with British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home. As prime minister, Mrs. Meir is the third woman to become a head of government in modern times—after Indira Gandhi of India and Mrs. Solomon West Ridgway Diaz Bandaranaike of Ceylon. She will be in office at least until the general elections in November.

THE FACES of a prime minister. Mrs. Golda Meir, prime minister of Israel, is described as a courageous fighter, a tireless worker and a dedicated diplomat. She has taken over the reins of government at one of the most crucial periods in her country's young history. If she is successful in securing peace for Israel, it will be due in part to inspiration from a brooch, one of the few pieces of jewelry she wears. It is inscribed: "Let her own works praise her."

COLOR IN THE KITCHEN—Now that easy-keep materials have come of decorative age, a kitchen can be as charmingly color-coordinated as any room in the house. A dramatic print in tones of pink, raspberry, and grape acts as the pace-setter in cotton-laminated shades, valances, and matching wallpaper. Completing the scheme are raspberry-colored splashboards and counter tops, a grape-toned top for the dining island, and pink window frames and telephone.

CAMERA Angles

By Ralph "Skip" Miller
Written for AP Newscasters

A technical breakthrough that may become as far reaching as the first Bell & Howell electric eye or the first Kodak Instamatic camera was announced at Photo Expo '69 held in the New York Coliseum, June 7-15.

Only a few of the 100,000 attendees realized the significance of the new development which was announced almost simultaneously by Honeywell Inc., makers of Stroboscopes, and by Sylvania Inc., originators of the Flashcube.

Benjamin Franklin or Thomas Edison would have been impressed.

Simply stated, the new scientific breakthrough cuts the chains that have bound high-intensity artificial light for decades. Instead of unwanted bulk, we now have compactness. Instead of an up-to-24-hour delay for recharging the energy supply, we can now do it in minutes.

Conceived in western U.S.A., where McCullough people make portable chain saws taken deep into forests to fell those sky-towering trees, and where there are no convenient AC outlets, the new product is truly portable power.

The formidable problems in portable power have been: (1) weight; (2) bulk; (3) recharging delay.

For photographers, the latter has been the Achilles heel. Takes up to 24 hours to recharge many nicad batteries. Meanwhile, a pro photographer can burn up all the available energy from one set of batteries in, say, 20 minutes. That's why the new Rapid Charge system is worth its weight in blonde models. Instead of 15 to 20 hours, a nicad battery may now be completely charged in 15 or 20 minutes. Instead of a heavy unit most photos hate to lug, the new Rapid Charge units weigh only three to five pounds.

Great! Indeed it is. For $39.95 list, a photographer with an extra power pack may now recharge one pack faster than he can possibly consume power from the other. Theoretically, he can shoot pictures forever without running out of power.

What makes this possible? Why hasn't it been done before? It's all a by-product of man's attempt to land on the moon. The intensive search for ways to mini-

EVER WONDER what the inside of a church steeple looks like? This man is working in one, welding computer-designed sections before shipment to Florida, where it will withstand high winds. An IBM computing system helps engineers simulate a 20,000-kiloton nuclear blast or the force of a hurricane to test the structures.

How many presidents were born in log cabins? The World Almanac says that Fillmore, Buchanan, Lincoln and Garfield were born in one-room dwellings made of logs notched at the corners. Jackson and Arthur were born in log houses rather than in one-room log cabins. Jefferson's birthplace, Shadwell, on the Virginia frontier, is believed to have been a log house.

William Driver is believed to have been the first man to call the American flag Old Glory. The World Almanac reports, Driver hoisted the Stars and Stripes above his brig, the Charles Doggett, on March 17, 1824, saying: "I name thee Old Glory." He is also credited with having said: "My ship, my country, my flag—Old Glory."

GIFT FOR LITTLE FEET — Pfc Richard Polangin fits a pair of boots on a child at the Pak Ai Orphanage, Republic of Korea. Private Polangin informed duplicate bridge clubs around his hometown of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., that the orphans needed boots. Two clubs responded by sending funds to purchase them. The soldier is a medical corpsman with the 2d Infantry Division.

THE STORY OF SLAVERY

If You Were the Judge Prize Ring Foul Nullifies Contract

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Haymaker Harry signed a contract to fight a 10-rounder with Jolting Joey. Under the provisions of the contract, both boxers agreed to abide by the rules of the State Athletic Commission, which meant, for one thing, no hitting below the belt.

And during the second round of the fight, that's just what happened Harry unleashed his famous haymaker, but it landed south of Joey's border. Doubling up from the blow, Joey tumbled to the canvas totally disabled, and the fight was halted. So was Harry's purse. The promoter refused to give Harry his share of the gate.

"By hitting poor Joey below the belt," he was told, "you breached the rules of the State Athletic Commission and, consequently, your contract. Therefore you forfeited your purse."

"That's the craziest thing I've ever heard," was Harry's answer. "I didn't hit Joey below the belt on purpose. The fact is, I was actually aiming for his chin. Because the punch went a little off course is no basis for holding up my money. Losing the fight was punishment enough."

Determined to collect his purse, Harry put on the gloves with the promoter in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you give Harry the decision and his purse?

This is how the Judge ruled: NO! The judge held that in order to collect under a contract, a sizable portion of the contract must be carried out. In this case, there was no substantial performance since, due to Harry's foul, the 10-round fight lasted for only two rounds. What's more, concluded the judge, whether or not the foul was deliberate made no difference. It was an act which Harry had contracted not to do.

(Based upon a 1916 Wisconsin Supreme Court Decision)

Access Road Improvement Program

The Missouri State Highway Commission announced today a two-year program for improving access roads to public recreational areas throughout the state. The estimated cost is slightly in excess of $2 million.

The money obligated by the Commission includes engineering expenses, right of way, construction and maintenance costs. The two-year program covers 54 miles of access roads in 24 counties.

In October, 1968, the Commission authorized Department engineers to draw up a policy for improving recreational access roads. Last month it approved the policy.

During the fiscal year (July 1, 1969 through June 30, 1970) the Commission hopes to construct about 29 miles of recreational access roads. During the second year (July 1, 1970 through June 30, 1971) the remaining 25 miles are planned.

Under the policy adopted by the Commission, the program applies only to roads to public recreational areas owned or operated under the supervision of a state or federal agency.

Under the program, roads will be improved only up to the property line of the recreational areas. They then, will become a part of the State Supplementary highway system. Those roads within the recreational areas will be developed and maintained by others.

The program will be carried out on the basis of proportional needs. Prime consideration in determining priorities were condition, roadbed and surface widths, present and anticipated usage and the area development plans of the supervisory agency and the Highway Department.

The approved program by county, area, mileage, work to be done and location includes:

DEKALB: Pony Express Wildlife Area - 1.1 miles right of way, grading and surfacing from Route 33 to the area entrance.

CLAY-CLINTON: Trimble Wildlife Area - 1 mile right of way, grading, bridging and surfacing from Route D to the area entrance.

Watermelon Supply Down, Price Up

Budget Surplus May Hurt Surtax Extension Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration, suddenly and perhaps with a bit of embarrassment, has surprisingly found the federal government had a $3.1 billion budget surplus last year.

The bonanza, which came after months of administration predictions that the surplus would be less than a billion dollars, resulted from income that was higher and outlays that were lower than the fledgling administration expected last January.

Preliminary figures, issued Monday by the Treasury Department and Bureau of the Budget, showed rounded-off receipts of $187.8 billion and outlays of $184.8 billion for fiscal year 1969, which ended June 30.

The surplus caused some Democrats in the Senate to comment that the administration's case for extending the income tax surcharge had been weakened.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., a leading supporter of extension, said the administration is using a new budget basis which counts things like Social Security payments. Without the change, he said, there would have been a deficit.

The most puzzling element of the unexpectedly large surplus was why there was no advance notice. As late as last week, Undersecretary of the Treasury Charles E. Walker predicted a surplus of "a little more than a billion."

That was consistent with the forecast Budget Bureau Director Robert P. Mayo made last May: About $900 million. The Johnson administration predicted almost the same figure last December and the Nixon administration echoed it in January.

The surprising surplus came primarily because the government's income was higher than it expected. Most of the bonanza came from individual income taxes, which were $2.8 billion above estimates. Corporate taxes were $1.4 billion below.

Part of that, the report said, was traceable to lower-than-expected refunds for individuals and higher-than-expected refunds to corporations. Most was due to payments of final taxes on 1968 liabilities and declaration payments on 1969 incomes higher than expected.

The surplus, no matter what its size, was a dramatic reversal from eight red-ink years, led by last year's record deficit of $25.2 billion.

It was the first surplus since a meager $240 million was recorded in 1960, the last year of the Republican Eisenhower administration. And it was the largest since 1957, when the surplus was $3.2 billion—on total outlays of $76.7 billion, less than half the size of the 1969 budget.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT YOUR PRESCRIPTION:

From your dentist?

The use of prescriptions in dentistry is a fairly recent development. Due to the discovery and application of certain types of drugs, the practice is rapidly expanding. Tranquilizers, because of their apprehension-curbing nature, have proved helpful with patients undergoing major dental work. By relaxing the patient in this way, the dentist can go about his work more efficiently. Analgesics and antibiotics are also proven aids in dental therapy. They speed healing and prevent or fight infection. These new applications of prescription drugs demonstrate the diverse role pharmaceuticals play in our lives. Now, when your dentist prescribes, you receive the same benefits of modern medical research as when your physician prescribes. And when you have regular physical examinations don't neglect to have your teeth checked. Make an appointment with your dentist when you make one with your doctor. As a matter of fact, why not phone for an appointment today?

For the highest pharmaceutical standards, low prices consistent with quality and the personal attention you can always depend upon, bring your prescriptions to

Building Nears

Completion

CHARLESTON — The Baser Electric Co., building should be completed in the industrial park by Aug. 1, and we expected the company will schedule some type of open house after they get moved and situated in the new structure. Meanwhile, the industrial committee has two definite prospects who have visited Charleston, and should know within one or two months if one or both of these firms is interested in locating in Charleston. Several hours have gone into revising the city's industrial package to suit the needs of these new prospects.

CHARLESTON — Work is proceeding rapidly on conversion of the Charleston Bowling Lanes into a medical clinic for Dr. T. P. Fenton and Associates. Two new doctors have joined the practice of Dr. Fenton and Dr. Henry Rzonca. They are Carter Fenton, D.C., and Robert Robbins, D.O. We understand that after a delay due to a mixup with his architectural firm, Dr. Fenton's plans for a hospital are now being drawn. No date yet for the start of construction. The new clinic should be in operation in mid-September. It will include office for the four doctors, a dentist, and a pharmacy.

In this statement, the city agrees to assume operation and maintenance of the airport if constructed. The architecture firm of Smith and Huffman has completed the necessary engineering survey, and it is anticipated that the entire application will be filed with EDA by the date of this newsletter.

John Hancock, first signer of the Declaration of Independence, said he wrote his name in large letters so that "King George III may read it without his spectacles."

Mariner Clicks First Photos From Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mariner 6 has clicked its cameras at Mars, snapping and storing for transmission to earth tonight the first 33 of a long series of pictures which may show whether life can exist on the red planet.

The space probe took its first photograph at 10:26 p.m. PDT Monday. Scientists said the camera was working well.

Mariner 6 was scheduled to start transmitting the pictures more than 68 million miles to earth at 6:35 p.m. today.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who as head of the President's Space Advisory Council advocates manned exploration of Mars, arranged to be at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory to watch the photographs come in.

The same radio commands which activated the cameras also started instruments designed to measure the surface temperature of Mars and to analyze the chemical make-up of its thin atmosphere.

The quality of the initial pictures will not be known until they reach earth. A spokesman said Monday night that signals from the spacecraft indicated the camera platform was properly aimed, that light was entering the lens, and that a picture was being recorded on tape.

Mariner 6 carries a small computer which converts the light and dark areas of a scene into numbers. The numbers, representing the dots on a television screen, are stored on tape for later transmission to the laboratory here, where a computer translates them into an image.

The first sequence of 33 pictures, taken at distances ranging from 71,500 to 453,350 miles from Mars, will show the full disc of the planet.

They are expected to have little more detail than photographs made with earth telescopes, but will show all phases of the planet as it rotates during the spacecraft's approach. Much sharper pictures, with details as small as 900 feet across, are to be taken Wednesday night as Mariner 6 flies within 2,000 miles of Mars.

Mariner 6 will require almost 20 hours to shoot the first 33 pictures—one every 37 minutes. Transmission will take less than 3 hours, with a new one received every five minutes. Mariner 6 will take a total of 74 long-range and close-up pictures.

Its sister craft Mariner 7, launched last March—a month after Mariner 6—will snap 117 photographs beginning Friday and ending Aug. 4 when it, too, passes within 2,000 miles of Mars.

Some of these pictures should be far superior to the 21 taken by Mariner 4 when it swung past Mars at a distance of 6,000 miles in 1965.

Nixon May Call On Thieu

BANGKOK (AP)—President Nixon will visit South Vietnam Wednesday and confer with President Nguyen Van Thieu, responsible sources reported today.

Details of Nixon's visit to the war zone were shrouded in security precautions, and White House spokesmen would give no confirmation. But neither would they deny the report.

It was expected that the President would be in Vietnam only a few hours.

Meanwhile, Nixon's top military and diplomatic officials in Saigon flew to Bangkok today to review the situation in Vietnam with the President.

After morning and luncheon conferences with Thailand's leaders on Southeast Asian security and U.S.-Thai relations, Nixon scheduled an afternoon review of the Vietnam war with U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams Jr., the commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam.

Nixon has said these talks would influence his thinking on further withdrawals of U.S. troops and his assessment of the significance of the battlefield lull in Vietnam, now in its sixth week.

Abrams told newsmen as he left Saigon the lull could be due to enemy preparations for another offensive, "lack of capability on the enemy's part," or an attempt by Hanoi to de-escalate the war, but "I don't think anyone really knows."

Thanat Khoman, Thai foreign minister, told newsmen after he and Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn met with Nixon that the American president "stressed the U.S. commitment to all obligations it has with Thailand" and promised to support and assist Thailand in providing the necessary equipment to realize its national goals.

Thanat said Thai officials emphasized to Nixon that "the Thai people are conscious of their responsibility to maintain their independence and freedom with their own strength." But Thanat said they also told him the Thai people hope that countries with mutual interests, like the United States, will help them with equipment adequate to fight aggression effectively.

Thanat said Nixon told them he was pleased with Thai policy and the measures Thailand has taken to defend itself against Communist aggression, particularly to protect villagers in remote areas.

Nixon's published schedule for Wednesday is blank until the evening, when Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn gives a dinner for the President and Mrs. Nixon.

White House spokesmen and American military sources remained silent on the possibility of a Vietnam trip during the day, but there were no denials of the rising speculation.

There was also a possibility that Nixon would drop in on one of the six big U.S. bases in Thailand to speak to the troops.

City Manager on State Study Group

W. Raymert Miller, city manager, has begun work in Jefferson City with a 25-man advisory committee whose primary purpose is to make recommendations for a systematic classification study of all the state's roads, streets and highways, according to function.

The committee is composed mainly of county judges, mayors, traffic engineers and public works administrators.

The study is in its first phase. Future studies will include developing a functional plan, estimating the cost of improvements required on the systems, estimating the benefits of the improvements and evaluating the fiscal needs of the program.

Findings of the Missouri study, along with reports from other states, will be forwarded to Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe, who must report to Congress on the nation's highway needs by January next year.

Area members of the advisory committee are Paul F. Frederick, city manager, Cape Girardeau and Clarence W. Suedeckum, presiding judge, Cape Girardeau county court in Cape Girardeau.

It's a Long Way Across U.S. on Foot

Many Sikeston citizens reported seeing a hippy walking through town and were somewhat alarmed.

What they didn't know was the man was Mark Johnson, Kitty Hawk, N. C., who is walking across the United States.

Johnson started his trip June 13 and expects to complete the journey within four months. His destination is San Francisco.

Johnson said he isn't a physical fitness enthusiast. He wants to see the country and the people.

Johnson's clothing is a pair of jeans, a dinun shirt, a pair of gum rubber shoes, a ruck sack to carry his extra clothes in, and a Australian bush hat to cover his head. His beard matches his attire of a rugged adventurer. A sign on his back informs passing motorists of the venture.

Johnson bathes whenever possible. He says he also washes his clothes once or twice a week. Though the beard may look unsightly Johnson says he grew it out of necessity rather than from spite. He says it is hard to shave every day and the beard looks better than having afternoon shadow on his face for two or three days a week.

Johnson lived in San Diego, where he graduated from school three years ago. His family then moved east.

Because he was a conscientious objector to war Johnson was allowed to stay out of the army but he serve a two years with New York State Psychological Institute.

It was during his two years at the institute that he got the idea to take the trip.

Upon arriving in California, where a brother lives, Johnson plans to get a job and put down roots. He is thinking about a trip to South America.

One Jail Escapee Captured Speeding

Draws Fine Of $270

James Box, 308 Lillian, was fined $270 and costs in Magistrate court this morning on a charge of speeding. Judge M. E. Montgomery suspended $170 of the fine upon payment of $100 after he was informed Box is leaving for army service next month.

The judge dismissed a concealed weapon charge, brass knuckles, against Box following the recommendation of James E. Moore III, assistant Scott County prosecuting attorney.

Others persons fined on speeding charges were Dennis Myers, 521 Sikes, $70; Sharon Mills, Sikeston, $25, and R. G. Blackman, Bertrand, $25.

Lois Summers, 242 Daniel, was fined $5 on a bad check charge. Michael Ferrell, Union City, Tenn., was fined $5 on the same charge.

Albert F. Jenkins, route two, Sikeston was fined $5 for littering a public road.

A felonious possession of an automobile charge against Richard Riley, Sikeston, was dismissed.

A warrant was issued for John Williams, 236 Dixie, who failed to appear in court to face a no driver's license charge.

Day of $1 a Pound Steak May Be Gone

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Nixon administration farm economist predicts consumers soon may be paying less for beef, but some industry spokesmen say the day of $1 per pound round steak is gone forever.

Dr. Don Paarlberg, chief economist for the Department of Agriculture, said he sees hope for a cooling of retail prices as the result of cattle prices dropping some from their early June peak which was an 18-year record.

"The price has come down at the farm level—and sometimes these things don't work as promptly as they should—but my anticipation would be that we'd see, and have seen, some reaction on the retail market," Paarlberg said in an interview.

Contrary forecasts came from an industry spokesman, declining to be identified, who said retailers will not drop prices significantly because of what he sees as small or short-term declines in live cattle prices.

"Really, I don't think anybody in this country can ever again expect to see $1 round steak again, and certainly not less than about $1.25 for sirloin," the industry man said.

Last December consumers paid an average of $1.20 a pound for choice sirloin steak. In June, after months of rising cattle prices, the same meat cost Mrs. Average Housewife $1.40.

Retail beef prices made their biggest jump during June when there was a 4.5 per cent gain in the cost of meats, poultry and fish. The government statistics showed a gain of six-tenths of one per cent in the cost of living during the month.

Why the big boost in beef prices?

Economists cite inflation and the rising demand among beefhungry consumers who ate an average of 110-pounds per person last year, compared with 85 pounds in 1960.

Paarlberg discounts what some observers believe is the heart of the beef-price situation—the failure of cattlemen to turn out as much beef as needed.

A soon-to-be-published report is expected to show beef production for the first half of 1969 at or near the level of last year despite a larger population and demand.

The sunlight streaming through a window left the surface of the sun only eight minutes earlier.

Secret Reports Bog ABM

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts to force an early vote on the Safeguard missile defense program are becoming mired in a maze of secret reports cited by Senate opponents as a reason for delaying a showdown.

Critics indicate they have at least four secret reports, mainly from within the government or from Pentagon "think tanks," which they contend strengthen their case.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., called a session of his Disarmament subcommittee today to study at least two secret reports, one the so-called Latter Report by the Defense Science Advisory Board and the other a study made by the Institute of Defense Analysis.

"The more facts we get," Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said Monday, "the more constructive the voting will be."

But Safeguard supporters accused the opposition of delaying a showdown because of insufficient strength.

Patrol Applicants Tested

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Applicants for appointment to the Missouri Highway Patrol are undergoing written tests and interviews at the patrol's nine troop headquarters around the state.

Those who pass the written tests will be given physical and oral examinations at the patrol's Rolla Training Academy Aug. 13.

To qualify an applicant must have the equivalent of a high school education and be a three-year resident of Missouri. He must be between 21 and 33 years old and between 5 feet-9 inches and 6 feet-3 inches tall.

Tropical Storm Developing

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical storm Anna swept westward across the Atlantic today with 60-mile-an-hour winds as forecasters predicted it would become the season's first hurricane.

"We don't really know what is out there," forecaster Raymond Kraft said at the National Hurricane Center.

"What information we've been able to get wasn't favorable for immediate intensification. But it's possible it is already a hurricane."

At 6 a.m. EDT the storm was about 1,500 miles east-southeast of Puerto Rico and about 2,500 miles from Miami.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Missouri Senate Leader Earl R. Blackwell has obtained a marriage license in Las Vegas to wed his secretary in his Hillsboro office, Miss Carolyn Sue Ravencraft, records disclosed Monday.

A clerk in the Clark County Marriage Bureau said a license was issued at 5:33 p.m. Saturday to an Earl Blackwell, 45, of Hillsboro, Mo., and Carolyn Sue Ravenscraft, 26, of Herculaneum, Mo.

Blackwell was divorced Feb. 17, 1967. He has four children by his former wife.

Blackwell is President Pro Tem of the Missouri Senate.

JIM WHITE, left, and John Buether, 20-year-old Bloomington, Minn., men, found Mississippi County hospitality the insurance that enabled them to continue a canoe paddling trip. Treacherous Mississippi river waters overturned their frail craft last week near Charleston.

Canoe Trip Restored By Hospitable Acts

By E. J. MAYES
State Editor
CHARLESTON — An undercurrent stymied for four days the upriver canoe paddling trip of two University of Minnesota engineering students but, the gloom of disaster was brightened by hospitality, administered this time by Mr. and Mrs. Mark Rowling of Route 2, Charleston.

The 20-year-old students, Jim White, a junior architectural engineering major, and John Buether, a chemical engineer major, are attempting to turn in a Wrong Way Corrigan feat, by paddling upriver from New Orleans to Minneapolis.

11 Juveniles Apprehended After Breakin

CHARLESTON — Eleven juveniles were apprehended by police at 7 p.m. yesterday after entering Lincoln School agriculture building.

Ben Stampey, policeman, recognized one juvenile as the 11 fled. He obtained the other 10 names after one was arrested.

The youths will appear at 7 p.m., Monday conference with city police and a juvenile officer. The conference will decide if charges will be pressed or if the youths will be committed to parental supervision.

Last night's break-in at Lincoln School was the ninth since July 8. The youths apparently entered through windows broken before yesterday.

Parents Asked to Teach Safety

Police Chief Arthur Bruce appealed today for parents to instruct their children about bicycle safety. Bruce said the matter of a child's life is involved and it should be treated with the seriousness of that.

There have been numerous recent accidents involving children on bikes and automobiles.

The sheriff's department also reported investigation is continuing in the burglary of a Pemiscot County resident's home last week.

Homer Malaughen of Portageville Route Two reported his house had been broken into on July 24, and a television set, radio, window fan, shotgun and shells were stolen.

Back to Jail

CHARLESTON — In police court today, Doris Monroe was recommitted to jail. He was jailed July 11, served ten days, failed to pay his fine and was recommitted.

Disaster struck as their canoe was overturned north of their starting point at Kenna, La., June 8, but they saved most of their supplies.

The treacherous waters of Newcombe Chute, in the Thompson Bend area of Mississippi county, proved more demanding as an undercurrent pull overturned the canoe with nothing remaining for the duo but a sleeping bag, a tent and a lone canoe paddle, which overturned the 16-foot, fibre glass boat Thursday night.

Mark Rowling found them, wet and discouraged in the Chute area and carried them home with him, cared for them for four days and assisted in replenishing supplies and outfits.

Additional help came from officials of the Crenshaw Discount Store at Sikeston, where some of the articles, required in re-outfitting were donated by the store. Using money wired from their Bloomington homes, the boys bought a sleeping bag, camera, flashlight, AM and FM radios, camera and film and another canoe paddle, and, along with the donated articles, were shipshape for the Monday departure.

They hope to land in a small river that adjoins the University of Minnesota campus, arriving there — barring further mishap — in time to register for their senior year, early in September.

Both boys are loud in their praise of "southern hospitality." "The Rowlings were as attentive to us as if we had been their own children and we plan to have our parents visit with them in Charleston next summer," they said. "All of the Charleston are folk have been most gracious, just as have southerners all along the route from Louisiana. And we are most appreciative and have a new concept of the southern sector of our nation."

Rotarians See Film on LSD

A moving picture film titled "LSD-25" was shown to the Rotary club last night at the Rustic Rock Inn and Police Detective Sergeant Dan Harmon of Cape Girardeau told about the risks taken by users of the illicit chemical.

He said that an LSD user might have a recurrence of "his trip" any time within four years after he took the mind distorting drug. Harmon said that the effects produced by the drug were unpredictable.

The speaker was introduced by Pat Jones, Police Patrolman Curtis Carbaugh of Cape Girardeau was a guest of the club.

Hayti Man Wounded

HAYTI — A 50-year-old Hayti man, John Grant, is listed in fair condition at the Pemiscot Memorial Hospital with a self-inflicted bullet wound in his stomach, the Pemiscot County Sheriff's Department has reported.

Grant went to the hospital at 3:45 p.m. Sunday and hospital officials reported the shooting to law officials. A spokesman for the sheriff's department said it is not known if the shooting was intentional or accidental.

The sheriff's department also reported investigation is continuing in the burglary of a Pemiscot County resident's home last week.

Homer Malaughen of Portageville Route Two reported his house had been broken into on July 24, and a television set, radio, window fan, shotgun and shells were stolen.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
A WAR OF THEIR OWN

No one in his right mind can argue against a "War on Poverty". We would all be the beneficiaries of a victory over human want and need. Our main disagreement has been with the manner in which this "war" has been waged during the past several Administrations. We have witnessed much bureaucratic waste, support of freeloaders, pocketlining and patronage. In most instances the public has had little say in the distribution of tax dollars.

Unfortunately, we cannot end these governmental programs despite their waste and inefficiency; too often voluntary, private programs have either been too little or too disorganized to serve as an argument against government interference. This is a harsh reality. Many conservative theorists espouse private projects that could be incorporated into the war on poverty, but they make no attempt to begin the campaign. Apathy has been the foot-in-the-door for the government's encroachment into the private sector's affairs.

A release from the Office of Economic Opportunity on July 7 cited an example of private involvement that would more effectively serve the legitimate needy. Two recent graduates of a New York City school read of the plight of the poor in Appalachia. They approached high school students in the New York area and soon had assembled a small army of volunteers. Several radio stations gave them air time to present their message to the people. The New York Daily News ran a feature article on the project. The Red Cross helped them contact a local Community Action group. A New York freight line donated a van and driver to deliver to Kentucky the two tons of food and clothing collected in the first two months of the drive. All were private organizations except the Red Cross and Community Action.

The newly formed group is planning to incorporate and expand its programs. We hope they continue to grow through use of private resources. This type of cooperative, voluntary action is what we need to combat poverty.

Lynn Twitty thinks what this country needs are some colleges that will teach everything the students think they already know.

WHY DON'T CHAS - While on the subject of letters, I receive a number of them (unsigned) giving everyone in general, and me in particular, old Ned for doing or not doing something they think we should or should not do.

Here's the gist of some of them, with my comments in italics:

"How come you put my name in the paper when I was arrested? I didn't want it known?" - Things are tough all over. All I can tell you is that we don't make the news, we just print it.

"I saw a businessman at 3:30 in the morning with a woman in his car. What was he doing out at that hour with a strange woman?" - What were you doing out at that hour and what makes you think the woman was strange?

"Why don't some good honest people ever run for office?" - Why don't you?

"The other day I got into a big argument with a neighbor and I defended The Democrat-News because you are putting out a real, good newspaper," - Bless you.

"My son wants to enlist in the Marines. Do you think he should?" - Yup. Semper Fidelis, you know.

"You're always bragging about Notre Dame's football teams. If they're so good how come Michigan State and Southern California beat them? - Can't win 'em all.

"I get mad every time I come to Marshal to shop because I always get a parking ticket. That guy on the scooter is really an eager - beaver. Why don't he ticket the double-parkers once in a while, too?" - I dunno.

"Do you think the mail service is better today than it was 50 years ago?" - Nope.

"My daughter recently gave birth to a baby daughter and I think it's the most beautiful baby in the world. I think you ought to run a picture of it in the paper." - Aw, comon grandma.

"I think newspaper people are too noseey. Why do they have to know everything?" - We're noseey.

"You're a Democrat, I know, but sometimes you could like a Republican. What's the matter with you?" - Nuthin. I know a lot of Republicans who could like Democrats.

"Do you think LBJ will go down in history as one of our greatest presidents?" - No suh, ah don't.

"I am disgusted with all of the young men running around with long hair. How can this be corrected?" - Haircuts.

"When you first came to Marshal you write that you really liked the town. Do you still feel the same way?" - Shore do.

"I am not an old fogey but I sure can't stand to see the young girls running around in miniskirts. What do you think about this problem?" - What problem? You are an old fogey.

"I notice more and more people being arrested in Marshall for drunken driving these days. What is the reason for this?" - Booze.

"I am a veteran of World War II and from what I have been reading it seems to me that the soldiers today have it a lot easier than the World War II servicemen." - You must be kidding.

WHEN THEY COME HOME

When Johnny comes home again, from Viet Nam, he is going to have to learn a new way of life. Over there, our GI's found out that a Communist is an enemy and, if he wasn't killed, he killed you. They learned, the hard way, how Communists make it a practice to disguise themselves to work their way into strategic places, and they became well aware of the damage and atrocities Communists commit, given the least opportunity.

But these horrible lessons have taught Americans at home precious little concerning the real nature of communism. It is overdue that we learn, and lesson number one is that a Communist in this country is just as treacherous, just as venomous, and just as deadly as a Communist in Viet Nam.

Despite this obvious fact, these enemy agents are not only tolerated and listened to, they enjoy all the rights and privileges of citizenship, reinforced through a succession of decisions of the United States Supreme Court. They are allowed to operate freely, conspire without hindrance, agitate, hold jobs in industries where our national security is involved, and even to teach in our schools. Anyone who expresses alarm at this incredible state of affairs is denounced as a "McCarthyite," the ultimate epithet in the Communist lexicon - prized particularly by the Communists because they invented it.

Our returning GI's may have trouble understanding this weird state of affairs. To them a Communist is a Communist, whether he is butchering innocent peasants in a village in South Viet Nam, directing a riot in a large American city, singing folk songs with a political message, or teaching political science on some college campus.

It will take some doing to make our GI's change their ideas about Communists being the enemy. It may be that they'll have to be given a special brainwashing course, and paraded through the streets in various cities across the country with yokes about their necks labeled "extremist."

An alternative would be to have the members of the U. S. Supreme Court spend a few months in South Viet Nam learning some elemental things about Communist tactics first hand. So far, the Court has specialized in granting liberties to the enemy, while denying the rest of us the right to defend our own intelligently.

What has become of the old fashioned man who had a "stage" party every time his wife left town?

When a man catches a bad cold, it makes him wonder what use the women get out of the little piece of lace and linen a woman carries for a handkerchief.

"The little sense I have cost me dearly," a Sikeston man said. "When I think how I have been punished for my foolishness, I hope my sons will have more sense than I have had, and not make the same mistakes."

Skeleton in the Closet. In Columbus, Ohio, a deputy sheriff saw John Dyer carefully signal before making a right turn in his automobile, stopped him to present one of the city's safety awards, discovered he had no driver's license, hauled him into court.

The man whos always prepared never seems to have anything happen to him.

No Exceptions. In Southport, England, the city council decided that James Clarkon, a 35-year-old laborer, should be docked 55 cents for his 1½-hour absence from his job at the city wharves, even though he had spent the time rescuing a man trapped in a sandbank.

An increased number of motorists are using their cars to transport boats on boat trailers to the vacation and fishing area in Missouri, it was noted today by Colonel E.L. (Mike) Hockaday, the Superintendent of the State Highway Patrol.

"Driving with a trailer is vastly different from operating a car alone," Colonel Hockaday stated. "Special skills are required of drivers to safely pull their rigs in traffic. I urge motorists to acquire these skills and to be extra careful when pulling trailers."

The Patrol Superintendent pointed out certain driving skills motorists should exercise when towing their boats and trailers.

1. Start slowly and allow more time for other traffic to clear before moving onto a highway. Glance frequently into the mirror to check on traffic. 2. Position your car and trailer farther from the curb than usual before making a right turn. Keep well toward the center of your lane when rounding curves. 3. A towed vehicle will reduce your acceleration capability in his office to declare a holiday.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Members of President Nixon's staff are congratulating themselves that a very great public relations gamble paid off. They now admit that there was some doubt inside the White House as to whether the moon mission might have a mishap at the last minute and leave the President red-faced in the Mid-Pacific, presented with the alternative of abandoning is trip around the world or continuing it under very embarrassing circumstances.

This possibility was frankly considered before the final decision was announced.

The men who led the argument that Nixon take the trip were Bob Haldeman, the former J. Walter Thompson advertising expert who likes to wrap policies up in Madison Avenue packages. He was supported by Press Secretary Ron Ziegler and Aid Dwight Chapin, two other hotshots from J. Walter Thompson. They argued that the publicity to be gained from Nixon's identifying himself with the moon trip far outweighed the risks.

But more cautious White House advisers checked with NASA. There they got the optimistic opinion that the moon project would succeed, that the President would not be left red-faced in mid-Pacific, NASA officials further advised that the most crucial part of the whole trip would be when Armstrong and Aldrin set their lunar module down on the moon and that, if at the last minute they did not make it, President Nixon would have time to change his plans before he started for the Pacific.

NASA officials, however, did not go along with some of the other ideas of the ad men around Nixon. In fact there was a definite and rather unpleasant series of clashes between them.

Hasile Over Publicity—The first came when space agency officials planned to recognize the late President Kennedy's part in fixing the overtaking and passing another vehicle. Allow more distance to pass safely and return to the proper lane. 4. Maintain a greater following distance when pulling a boat and trailer than with your car alone. 5. Your speed will be slower than that of many others on the highway.

Special attention, therefore, should be given to drivers desiring to pass. When a large vehicle passes you a large air mass movements will tend to move your trailer to the right. A slight steering adjustment at this time will help the situation.

"Besides exercising the skills necessary to safely transport a trailer on the highway," Hockaday continued, "motorists should also make sure their trailers are securely hitched and that they have good, properly inflated tires."

American policy or reaching the moon, by having the astronauts read Kennedy's vigorous statement made on May 25, 1969. It was to be read immediately after they stepped out on the moon's surface.

But President Nixon said no. He also vetoed a NASA plan to name the lunar capsule "The John F. Kennedy." Instead, he proposed the names "eagle" and "Columbia" for the two space craft.

Both of these orders were transmitted to space officials by Bob Haldeman, the former J. Walter Thompson executive. He also conceived the plaque which was signed by Nixon and the three Astronauts and placed on the moon. NASA officials at first resisted the idea of the plaque. Finally Haldeman brusquely advised them that the plaque was the President's wish. That was that.

It was Frank Shakespeare, the new chief of the U.S. information agency, who concocted the idea of having Nixon put a phone call through to the two astronauts immediately after they landed on the moon.

NASA officials grumbled privately about this, complained that it identified Nixon with the lunar landing despite the fact that he had never supported it, either in the election campaign or at any time before he became President. However, Nixon not only liked the idea but wanted to go further and narrate the moon walk. He wanted to have the Astronauts give him the first description of the moon by telephone. He then would accept this on behalf of the American people.

However, space officials finally talked the president into limiting his telephone calls to only two-and-one-half minutes. This part of the ceremony, incidentally, left a bad impression overseas, even though trimmed down. Many foreigners got the impression that the President was trying to horn in

It isn't quite correct, as a sleeveless sweater is considered sportswear. A knitted vest would be better. (But it's important to keep healthy and sleeveless sweaters harmonize well with some suit fabrics - so go right on wearing that sleeveless sweater and stay well!) ... STATISTICS WITH A STORY
According to the Edison Electric Institute, as of the middle of 1968, a total of 148.8 million kilowatts of new electric generating capacity was on order and scheduled for operation during the second half of 1968 and later years. A substantial part of the new generating capacity will consist of nuclear plants. It is a safe bet that not one person in a thousand considered the report as having any bearing on his personal well-being.

Electricity is something that we assume will be there when we need it. But back of the bare statistical story of kilowatts are the new homes, factories and businesses that appear by the millions of every year-- all expecting to have electric power at the flip of a switch. And that power will be there--power that was on the drawing boards of utility companies five or ten years ago.

One of the nation's largest investor-owned utilities* has issued some figures on building in California. They show that 58,500 new dwelling units were complete in its service area during 1968. And the population of the company's service area increased nearly 140,000 persons from mid-1967 to mid-1968. This California utility was investing hundreds of millions of dollars for its expansion long before the ground was broken for any of the 58,500 new dwellings that came on its lines in 1968.

It takes a long time and a lot of money to build an electric plant, nuclear or conventional. The investor-owned electric industry's ability to plan ahead with flexibility, imagination and foresight is the basis upon which the industry has established a record of near 100 per cent reliability in providing energy when and where it is needed.

Radio sez there' gonna bring back some rocks from the moon. So's our wise men can find out the orogin of the earth. Gramps sez some of them men and school teachers don't believe what the Bible sez.

H.L. Hunt Says

The American achievement of putting men on the moon pointed up more forcefully than anything else could have, the superiority of the personal enterprise system, under which men and women are slaves, doing the bidding of their masters.

An audience around the world estimated at 528 million persons watched the two Apollo 11 astronauts place the American Flag on the moon and saw and heard President Nixon speak to the two Americans on the moon and to the other one orbiting it. The CBS Network estimated, however, that more than a fourth of the world's population, under Communist control, was denied even the most meager news of this marvel of mankind's achievement.

By contrast with the overwhelmingly successful Apollo flight, in which Americans not only landed safely on the moon, but walked on its surface, ate, slept, and obtained samples of lunar rock to bring back with them, the Russian attempt to put even an unmanned object on the moon failed miserably. The weekend of July 18 was certainly a dismal one for Communists, both foreign and domestic.

In these days when good work, accomplishment and achievement are under attack from the American left-wing as being the tools of "the establishment" (whatever that means in Communist jargon) the feat of Apollo 11 emphasizes the positive results of courage, ingenuity, competition, personal enterprise, and, most of all, freedom. As a result, every American who loves his country stands a little taller and fees a lot prouder today. HLL

Their central permitted from the floor. committees meet jointly and in As though at an all-Soviet subessions to dramatize the party congress, the theory was newest in revolutions, planted long and laboriously. For Oakland, it was Dr. Herbert Aptheker, the Communist Party's theoretician and probably Moscow's intellectual disciplinarian in the U.S.

Their advance men, exhorting the new left, dust off old Stalinist slogans. Dr. Aptheker spoke at such Castro-like length that the young Panthers squirmed, screeched and then sat down when they were told to be quiet. There was no doubt that the Communist Party was in control -- with the advised consent of the Panther leaders.

Both need each other. The Black Panthers are short on cash and long on youth; short on organizational talent and long on avowedly bloody gung ho; short on members and headquarters and long on hunger for a piece of the action inside politics and labor.

The Communist Party is long on cash and short on youth. Its organizers are the world's best. Its strategic sensitivities are keener than a moon-planted seismograph. Despite its talent, the CPUSA has been bereft of any piece of the action inside labor or national politics since the '40s.

Thus, it isn't what they see in each other -- it's what they need in each other which gravitates them together.

The Black Panthers can put strong flesh and powerful muscle on the aging and withering Communist skeleton. The Communist Party can offer a regional apparatus in 23 districts from Brooklyn to Waikiki Beach.

They surfaced officially as comrades in their first joint venture, the three-day National Conference for a United Front Against Fascism, run in Oakland, Calif., from July 19 to July 21.

Their next venture is a massive, repeat massive, demonstration in Chicago. It's scheduled for Sept. 24. The Communists must have provided a heady red political wine -- for they are talking of putting "a hundred thousands of demonstrators into the streets."

For all this there is evidence. The Oakland conference was run by the Communist Party as though it were a pigskin in Joe Namath's hands. This was by mutual and unanimous agreement between the Panthers' and Communists' central

There is no doubt that the black caucuses rapidly are becoming powerful in some sections such as Detroit, Pittsburgh, and the big Eastern cities. There is no doubt that they can disrupt production for days with angry picket lines. They have at Chrysler, at Ford and other big plants.

There is no doubt that, skillfully directed by veteran -- albeit truly aged -- Communist labor specialists, the Panthers can become a force on the industrial front in a few years.

And this, after all, is the Communist Party's reason for existence -- infiltration of the American industrial complex, especially in this astronautic age.

So they think it's all beautiful, too.

Johnnie, St. Louis Trained Chinese Chef

Johnnie Ham has been the Chinese chef at the Rustic Rock for five years, with the exception of a few months last winter, when he worked at Luber's, also in Sikeston.

Johnnie was born in southern China, and came to the United States in 1935. He joined his father in St. Louis that year, and attended public school, while working evenings as a waiter and apprentice chef.

His father was a waiter, and Johnnie just went naturally, into the restaurant business. He worked for 15 years as a waiter, and the low pay encouraged him to become a full-time chef.

We asked Johnnie how he happened to come to Sikeston, from so many years in St. Louis. He said,

"I was in St. Louis, see, and my brother, he was at Harper's in Cairo. You know Harper's? And he (the brother) wanted to go to his family in Hong Kong, for a visit. He asked me to leave my job in St. Louis and come to his job while he was gone."

So Johnnie spent seven months in Cairo, during his brother's absence. Mr. Armstrong, an owner at the Rustic Rock, ate at Harper's one night, and after tasting Johnnie's delicious cooking, "He came back to the kitchen, and said 'Johnnie, would you like to come to work in Sikeston, when your brother comes back?'"

Johnnie said "yes," and it is Sikeston's good fortune. He's been cooking for 15 years, and says it is a permanent thing. He did tell us, however, that his wife does the cooking at home.

The Hams have three children, and only Alice, 19, is still at home. The family is international, since, Wilford, 32, lives with his wife and three children in Canada, and Shu Ping, 26, lives in Hong Kong with her husband and four children. Noticing the international names, we asked Johnnie why his children don't all have Chinese names or American names. He told us,

"Wilfred lives in Canada, and has taken a Canadian name. Shu Ping lives in Hong Kong, and has a Chinese name. And, Alice, you know that is American."

In the restaurant, the fresh vegetables Johnnie cooks come from St. Louis, but are grown, usually, in southern California.

Those crisp, tender bean sprouts, however, come from Johnnie's storeroom, behind the kitchen. The mungo beans are shipped dry, from Taiwan. Then, Johnnie measures and washes them, adds a measured amount of water, and in a few days, they are sprouted mungo beans. The beans have to be watched, washed, turned and soaked, but last of all, they are cooked and eaten. Delicious!

In the store-room, there are mushrooms, oyster sauce, bamboo shoots, soy sauce, tea from Formosa, and the beans. And more mouth-watering foods from the Orient. Some are from Japan, some from Formosa, and some from Hong Kong.

Johnnie's father, who drew Johnnie into the business, is now retired in Hong Kong. But Johnnie's brother is still in Cairo, and Johnnie is here in Sikeston, delighting guests of the Rustic Rock who like delightful, delicious Chinese food.

Whose Name For The Baby-Husband or Lover

Dear Ann Landers: My brother died two months ago. His widow has asked me for advice and I don't know what to tell her. The question is in regard to her 19-year-old son. He wants to get married.

The boy is 4-F so he is not worried about the Army. He has been kicked out of two colleges so he is not worried about his education. (He can't get in anywhere). He works in his grandfather's business (when he works) so he is not worried about a job. Here is the question: The boy wants his mother to advance him $3,000 against his inheritance so he can get married and take his bride to Honolulu on a honeymoon. His father left him $20,000 but the will states that the first payment of $5,000 is to be made on the boy's 21st birthday. The second payment comes due in 1974. Subsequent payments of $2,000 are to be made at two year intervals.

The boy keeps badgering his mother and repeating, "I don't want a gift, all I want is an advance on what is legally mine. I will pay you the $3,000 in 1971 when I get the $5,000."

What should she tell him? She's leaving it up to me. — Keeper of the Keys

Dear Keeper: She should tell him no. Her husband knew what he was doing when he wrote his will in such a way that his son would not come into any money until he was 21. All she need say is, "Sorry, we're going to leave things as dad wanted them."

Dear Ann Landers: I have a neighbor who thinks I have the most beautiful garden in town. She can hardly wait until the flowers are in full bloom so she can ask permission to "pick a few."

This woman insists she cannot grow flowers because her children need a place to play. You should have seen the look she gave me yesterday when I refused to allow her to pick a bouquet for her company table. Her face was so full of hate it ruined my day.

It takes a great deal of patience, weeding, spraying, watering and luck to grow beautiful flowers. Am I selfish because I want to enjoy them as long as possible?

There must be countless readers in your audience who have this same problem. Will you kindly give us a word or two? — Wilfred Friendship

Dear Friend: Some people make a living selling flowers.

They are called florists. Their phone numbers are listed in the telephone directory. Enough said.

Dear Ann Landers: No lectures, please. I know right from wrong. Just tell me if a married woman can put the real father's name on the child's birthcertificate instead of the name of her legal husband. The real father is married and has several daughters. He wants a son to carry on his name. Our baby will be born next month and I am almost certain I'm going to have a boy.

This is sort of a mess and I need the answer. — Skylark

Dear Sky: Don't make the mess any messier by putting your lover's name on the baby's birth certificate. According to law your husband is the father of the child.

Vada Pinson and Billy Williams attended to their private business in plenty of time to become good company men when the chips were down.

Pinson ran his hitting streak to 19 games with a fourth, inning single Monday night, then came up with the deciding hit and saving defensive play in the St. Louis Cardinals' 2-1 victory over San Diego.

Williams also singled in the fourth, for a 17-game hitting skein, before stroking the winning single in a two-run 10th inning rally that sent the Chicago Cubs past San Francisco 4-3 in the day's only other game.

The action picks up in both the National and American Leagues today, with 17 games listed on the schedule.

In the NL, Houston is at New York, Atlanta at Philadelphia and Los Angeles at Pittsburgh for two-night doubleheaders, San Diego at St. Louis and Montreal at Cincinnati for single night games and San Francisco at Chicago in the afternoon.

New York visits Oakland, Boston is at California, Washington at Seattle and Baltimore at Kansas City in AL night games while Detroit plays a two-night twin bill at Minnesota and Chicago visits Cleveland for another pair under lights.

Pinson matched the NL's season-high hitting streaks, shared by Pittsburgh's Matty Alou and Willie Stargell, with his fourth inning single, then doubled to score Julian Javier in the sixth and give St. Louis a 2-0 lead.

Cardinals' rookie Chuck Taylor blanked the Padres until the eighth, when they scored on an error by Javier, an infield hit by Ed Spiezo and a double by Roberto Pena.

An intentional walk filled the bases with one out, but Pinson gloved Nate Colbert's foul fly down the right field line and fired to the plate to nail pinch runner John Sipin, completing a rally-killing double play.

Javier cracked a leadoff homer off lower Dick Kelley in the first inning and singled ahead of Pinson's RBI double in the sixth, helping Taylor gain his third victory without a loss.

Juan Marichal walked pinch hitter Willie Smith with two out in the 10th, and Don Kessinger, Glenn Beckert and Williams followed with singles, giving the Cubs their first Wrig

ARMED FORCES

NEW OCS ENLISTMENT PROGRAM

The U. S. Army has a new enlistment program for college students. Sergeant SFC Steve L. Sullivan, local Army recruiter, announced that effective immediately, college students with at least 60 semester hours can enlist in the Army for Officer Candidate School (OCS).

The new program allows young men with either 60 semester, 60 trimester or 90 quarter-mester hours of unduplicated college level studies to enlist under the new program.

Graduates of accredited junior colleges and those having sufficient credit hours from an accredited degree-granting institution are eligible to enlist for OCS. Prior to this only individuals with a baccalaureate or higher degree could apply for the OCS program from outside the active Army.

The total training period for OCS, from enlistment to commissioning, lasts about 10-12 months. The training is divided into three categories, basic, advanced and formal OCS. After receiving a commission, the remaining active duty obligation is 24 months.

Additional information about the new OCS enlistment option can be obtained from Sergeant SFC Steve Sullivan at 339 Broadway, Room 154 or by telephoning 335-9052.

Taxes to Be Spent

Growing Farm Pests

WASHINGTON (AP) - Mass rearing of farm product pests seems an unlikely way to spend tax money, but that is just what the government has agreed to do, with help from the University of Missouri.

The purpose of the studies to be conducted at the university is development of low cost, artificial diets for of all things - grain moths, whose larvae are voracious devourers of stored grains.

Latest in Cotton Fabrics Displayed

DALLAS - Opening of a library where manufacturers and designers can view the latest in cotton fabrics was one of the highlights of the fall meeting of the board of trustees of Cotton Producers Institute.

The ceremonies at the Dallas Apparel Mart followed a busy day in which the trustees considered recommendations for a wide range of cotton research and promotion activities for 1970.

Representing Missouri on the 51-member CIP Board are: John F. Summitt, Cardwell, and W. C. Bryant, Dorena.

The fabric library is the second to open, following enthusiastic acceptance of the initial unit in New York. With the opening of a third library later this month in Los Angeles, designers and manufacturers in the three major U. S. apparel manufacturing centers will have ready access to the latest in cotton fabrics for the coming year.

According to Missouri trustees, "The new library will serve as liaison between mills and the clothing trade and will afford apparel designers and manufacturers the opportunity to see a cross section of all types of cotton that are on the market without sales pressure."

When a designer or manufacturer expresses interest in a fabric, he is given a card indicating the name of the mill, the sales representative, and the mill fabric number of his selection. A similar card is then mailed to the mill to inform them of the visit to the library and the interest expressed in their product.

In addition to special displays of seasonal fabrics, the facility will offer a permanent index and file on all categories of domestically manufactured cottons along with sample swatches to illustrate fabric construction, staple weaves, and treated materials. Some 5,000 fabric samples from the spring lines of over 100 textile manufacturers and mills are included in the library.

The new Dallas facility is only one of the many projects supported by the $10-million program of research and promotion. Trustees indicated significant progress already is being realized through research in controlling insects, diseases, weeds, and other problem areas that cut growers' profits or reduce markets for cotton. Giant strides are being made, they stated, on developing improved consumer products. In the area of promotion, they estimated funds are being virtually doubled through cooperative agreements with manufacturers and retailers.

Trustees indicated a deep sense of responsibility in operating a program of this size and stated every effort is being made to insure the most effective job possible. During executive sessions of the meeting, trustees heard an interim report from one of the nation's leading management consulting firms which is conducting an in-depth study of cotton research and promotion programs and CPI's whole market development strategy. The management study will be completed in the fall at which time recommendations on the

JACKSON -- It is not like the usual library book, but it is interesting. It is the - 1922 Golden Jubilee Montgomery Ward Catalog, which was added to the collection of the Riverside Regional Library, a second copy has been placed in the Perryville branch of the library.

It is Unbelievable! - a man's two-trouser suit (with vest) for $12.95. A woman's polo coat with fur collar for $7.98. And really a dollar watch for 96 cents. A wedding ring, 14 Karat Gold, $5.85 - That was the time to get married! A big cream separator cost $75.00.

The catalog is a re-print; if these things could be bought now it would be a source of valuable antiques.

The regional board met Thursdays. The new audio-visual catalog was reviewed. It lists 130 new films leased for a year from Encyclopaedia Britannica Film Corporation, in addition to 156 films available through the Missouri Libraries Film Co-Op, plus others, 340 films owned by the library. While all audio-visual materials are kept at the course of future programs will be submitted to the Board.

The board will meet Aug. 28. at the central office. The summer story hour central office all films, film-program closed Thursday; it was strips, nd records are available conducted at all branches and at at the Regional Library Sikeston. Mrs. Bob Gones branches, Illmo, Benton. presented the program in Cape Perryville, Altenburg, and Girardeau and Perry Counties, member libraries in Sikeston and and Mrs. Jeanne Weichand in Chaffee. Sometime around midnight Edward Kennedy's car with Mary Jo Kopechne as a passenger plunged off the narrow bridge on Chappaquiddick Island (1). Kennedy, uncertain how he escaped from the car, unsuccessfully sought to free Miss Kopechne before returning to the Chappaquiddick cottage (2), from where he returned to Edgartown. Ferry attendants say he did not use the ferry. The following morning, two young fishermen spotted the half-submerged car (3). Kennedy and two companions crossed by ferry from Edgartown to the Chappaquiddick dock (4) where a ferry attendant, about 9:45 a.m., asked if they had heard about the accident. Kennedy returned immediately to Edgartown and went to the police.

Golda Meir of Israel

AS ISRAEL'S FOREIGN MINISTER, Golda Meir came in contact with many of the world's leaders. At top left, she is seen with U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld and Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion in 1959. A year later, she went to New York and was embraced by Eleanor Roosevelt at a U.N. reception for delegates. In 1962, Mrs. Meir met with President Kennedy, right, at Palm Beach, Fla. In background is Myer Feldman, presidential assistant on the Near East. No. 10 Downing St. got a call from the motherly minister in 1964 when she spoke with British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home. As prime minister, Mrs. Meir is the third woman to become a head of government in modern times—after Indira Gandhi of India and Mrs. Solomon West Ridgway Diaz Bandaranaike of Ceylon. She will be in office at least until the general elections in November.

THE FACES of a prime minister. Mrs. Golda Meir, prime minister of Israel, is described as a courageous fighter, a tireless worker and a dedicated diplomat. She has taken over the reins of government at one of the most crucial periods in her country's young history. If she is successful in securing peace for Israel, it will be due in part to inspiration from a brooch, one of the few pieces of jewelry she wears. It is inscribed: "Let her own works praise her."

COLOR IN THE KITCHEN—Now that easy-keep materials have come of decorative age, a kitchen can be as charmingly color-coordinated as any room in the house. A dramatic print in tones of pink, raspberry, and grape acts as the pace-setter in cotton-laminated shades, valances, and matching wallpaper. Completing the scheme are raspberry-colored splashboards and counter tops, a grape-toned top for the dining island, and pink window frames and telephone.

CAMERA Angles

By Ralph "Skip" Miller
Written for AP Newsfeatures

A technical breakthrough that may become as far reaching as the first Bell & Howell electric eye or the first Kodak Instamatic camera was announced at Photo Expo '69 held in the New York Coliseum, June 7-15.

Only a few of the 100,000 attendees realized the significance of the new evolution which was announced almost simultaneously by Honeywell Inc., marketers of Strobosars, and by Sylvania Inc., originators of the Flashcube.

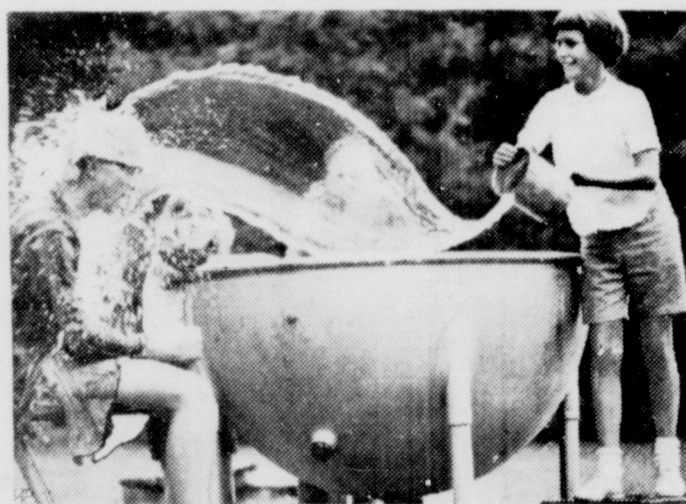

Benjamin Franklin or Thomas Edison would have been impressed.

Simply stated, the new scientific breakthrough cuts the chains that have bound high-intensity artificial light for decades. Instead of unwanted bulk, we now have compactness. Instead of an up-to-24-hour delay for recharging the energy supply, we can now do it in minutes.

Conceived in western U.S.A., where McCulloch people make portable chain saws taken deep into forests to fell those sky-towering trees, and where there are no convenient AC outlets, the new product is truly portable power.

The formidable problems in portable power have been: (1) weight; (2) bulk; (3) recharging delay.

For photographers, the latter has been the Achilles heel. Takes up to 24 hours to recharge many nicad batteries. Meanwhile, a pro photographer can burn up all the available energy from one set of batteries in, say, 20 minutes. That's why the new Rapid Charge system is worth its weight in blonde models. Instead of 15 to 20 hours, a nicad battery may now be completely charged in 15 or 20 minutes. Instead of a heavy unit most photos hate to lug, the new Rapid Charge units weigh only three to five pounds.

Great? Indeed it is. For $39.95 list, a photographer with an extra power pack may now recharge one pack faster than he can possibly consume power from the other. Theoretically, he can shoot pictures forever without running out of power.

What makes this possible? Why hasn't it been done before? It's all a by-product of man's attempt to land on the moon. The Model 770 and 880 Strobosars, intensive search for ways to mini-

EVER WONDER what the inside of a church steeple looks like? This man is working in one, welding computer-designed sections before shipment to Florida, where it will withstand high winds. new Rapid Charge halogen-lamp portable Sun-Guns. Fotogs may then make either stills or movies ad infinitum. But the exciting aspect of this technology can go much farther than snapshots. Think, for a moment, about the possibility of harnessing the sun's energy to replace this feasibility to Dad's charge all these portable power pals, thus making our lives more pleasurable than ever? And wouldn't it be wonderful if, some of these days, we could

How many presidents were born in log cabins? The World Almanac says that Fillmore, Buchanan, Lincoln and Garfield were born in one-room dwellings made of logs notched at the corners. Jackson and Arthur were born in log houses rather than in one-room log cabins. Jefferson's birthplace, Shadwell, on the Virginia frontier, is believed to have been a log house.

William Driver is believed to have been the first man to call the American flag Old Glory. The World Almanac reports. Driver hoisted the Stars and Stripes above his brig, the Charles Doggett, on March 17, 1824, saying: "I name thee Old Glory." He is also credited with having said: "My ship, my country, my flag—Old Glory."

GIFT FOR LITTLE FEET — Pfc Richard Polancin fits a pair of boots on a child at the Pak Ai Orphanage, Republic of Korea. Private Polancin informed duplicate bridge clubs around his hometown of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., that the orphans needed boots. Two clubs responded by sending funds to purchase them. The soldier is a medical corpsman with the 2d Infantry Division.

Prize Ring Foul Nullifies Contract

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Haymaker Harry signed a contract to fight a 10-rounder with Jolting Joey. Under the provisions of the contract, both boxers agreed to abide by the rules of the State Athletic Commission, which meant, for one thing, no hitting below the belt.

And during the second round of the fight, that's just what happened Harry unleashed his famous haymaker, but it landed south of Joey's border. Doubling up from the blow, Joey tumbled to the canvas totally disabled, and the fight was halted. So was Harry's purse. The promoter refused to give Harry his share of the gate.

"By hitting poor Joey below the belt," he was told, "you breached the rules of the State Athletic Commission and, consequently, your contract. Therefore you forfeited your purse."

"That's the craziest thing I've ever heard," was Harry's answer. "I didn't hit Joey below the belt on purpose. The fact is, I was actually aiming for his chin. Because the punch went a little off course is no basis for holding up my money. Losing the fight was punishment enough."

Determined to collect his purse, Harry put on the gloves with the promoter in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you give Harry the decision and his purse?

This is how the Judge ruled: NO! The judge held that in order to collect under a contract, a sizable portion of the contract must be carried out. In this case, there was no substantial performance since, due to Harry's foul, the 10-round fight lasted for only two rounds. What's more, concluded the judge, whether or not the foul was deliberate made no difference. It was an act which Harry had contracted not to do.

Access Road Improvement Program

The Missouri State Highway Commission announced today a two-year program for improving access roads to public recreational areas throughout the state. The estimated cost is slightly in excess of $2 million.

The money obligated by the Commission includes engineering expenses, right of way, construction and maintenance costs. The two-year program covers 54 miles of access roads in 24 counties.

In October, 1968, the Commission authorized Department engineers to draw up a policy for improving recreational access roads. Last month it approved the policy.

During the fiscal year (July 1, 1969 through June 30, 1970) the Commission hopes to construct about 29 miles of recreational access roads. During the second year (July 1, 1970 through June 30, 1971) the remaining 25 miles are planned.

Under the policy adopted by the Commission, the program applies only to roads to public recreational areas owned or operated under the supervision of a state or federal agency.

Under the program, roads will be improved only up to the property line of the recreational areas. They then, will become a part of the State Supplementary highway system. Those roads within the recreational areas will be developed and maintained by others.

The program will be carried out on the basis of proportional needs. Prime consideration in determining priorities were condition, roadbed and surface widths, present and anticipated usage and the area development plans of the supervisory agency and the Highway Department.

The approved program by county, area, mileage, work to be done and location includes:

DEKALB: Pony Express Wildlife Area - 1.1 miles right of way, grading and surfacing from Route 33 to the area entrance.

CHAIRMAN Bill Depro of the New Madrid County agricultural stabilization and conservation committee, announced county price support rates for 1969 - crop soybeans at an average of $2.28 per bushel.

Rates for counties reflect the national average support price of $2.25 per bushel, number one grade, for 1969 - crop soybeans, which were announced March 6 Chairman Depro said.

He compared this year's rate to the $2.50 per bushel for last year, No. 2 grade.

Watermelon Supply Down, Price Up

PORTAGEVILLE - Henry fields are in the Missouri river basin. The Black Diamond, a dark green, round melon which has long been a favorite of many people, has nearly been replaced on the commercial market. DeCarlo said because the new varieties yield bigger crops and are more vital and disease resistant, the Black Diamond is not grown extensively for commercial purposes.

A relatively new variety, Crisp Sweet, is becoming a more popular crop melon, after about five years in the experimental fields.

Charleston Grey is the melon most wholesalers prefer.

Budget Surplus May Hurt Surtax Extension Case

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Nixon administration, suddenly and perhaps with a bit of embarrassment, has surprisingly found the federal government had a $3.1 billion budget surplus last year.

The bonanza, which came after months of administration predictions that the surplus would be less than a billion dollars, resulted from income that was higher and outlays that were lower than the fledgling administration expected last January.

Preliminary figures, issued Monday by the Treasury Department and Bureau of the Budget, showed rounded-off receipts of $187.8 billion and outlays of $184.8 billion for fiscal year 1969, which ended June 30.

The surplus caused some Democrats in the Senate to comment that the administration's case for extending the income tax surcharge had been weakened.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., a leading supporter of extension, said the administration is using a new budget basis which counts things like Social Security payments. Without the change, he said, there would have been a deficit.

The most puzzling element of the unexpectedly large surplus was why there was no advance notice. As late as last week, Undersecretary of the Treasury Charles E. Walker predicted a surplus of "a little more than a billion."

That was consistent with the forecast Budget Bureau Director Robert P. Mayo made last May: About $900 million. The Nixon administration predicted almost the same figure last December and the Nixon administration echoed it in January.

The surprising surplus came primarily because the government's income was higher than it expected. Most of the bonanza came from individual income taxes, which were $2.8 billion above estimates. Corporate taxes were $1.4 billion below.

Part of that, the report said, was traceable to lower-than-expected refunds to individuals and higher-than-expected refunds to corporations. Most was due to payments of final taxes on 1968 liabilities and declaration payments on 1969 incomes higher than expected.

The surplus, no matter what its size, was a dramatic reversal from eight red-ink years, led by last year's record deficit of $25.2 billion.

It was the first surplus since a meager $240 million was recorded in 1960, the last year of the Republican Eisenhower administration. And it was the largest since 1967, when the surplus was $3.2 billion—on total outlays of $76.7 billion, less than half the size of the 1969 budget.

Mariner Clicks First Photos From Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) - Mariner 6 has clicked its cameras at Mars, snapping and storing for transmission to earth tonight the first 33 of a long series of pictures which may show whether life can exist on the red planet.

The space probe took its first photograph at 10:26 p.m. PDT Monday. Scientists said the camera was working well.

Mariner 6 was scheduled to start transmitting the pictures more than 88 million miles to earth at 6:35 p.m. today.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who as head of the President's Space Advisory Council advocates manned exploration of Mars, arranged to be at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory to watch the photographs come in.

The same radio commands which activated the cameras also started instruments designed to measure the surface temperature of Mars and to analyze the chemical make-up of its thin atmosphere.

The quality of the initial pictures will not be known until they reach earth. A spokesman said Monday night that signals from the spacecraft indicated the camera platform was properly aimed, that light was entering the lens, and that a picture was being recorded on tape.

Mariner 6 carries a small computer which converts the light and dark areas of a scene into numbers. The numbers, representing the dots on a television screen, are stored on tape for later transmission to the laboratory here, where a computer translates them into an image.

The first sequence of 33 pictures, taken at distances ranging from 71,500 to 453,360 miles from Mars, will show the full disk of the planet.

They are expected to have little more detail than photographs made with earth telescopes, but will show all phases of the planet as it rotates during the spacecraft's approach.

Much sharper pictures, with details as small as 900 feet across, are to be taken Wednesday night as Mariner 6 flies within 2,000 miles of Mars.

Mariner 6 will require almost 20 hours to shoot the first 33 pictures—one every 37 minutes. Transmission will take less than 3 hours, with a new one received every five minutes.

Mariner 6 will take a total of 74 long-range and close-up pictures.

Its sister craft Mariner 7, launched last March—a month after Mariner 6—will snap 117 photographs beginning Friday and ending Aug. 4 when it, too, passes within 2,000 miles of Mars.

Some of these pictures should be far superior to the 21 taken by Mariner 4 when it swung past Mars at a distance of 6,000 miles in 1965.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT YOUR PRESCRIPTION:

From your dentist?

The use of prescriptions in dentistry is a fairly recent development. Due to the discovery and application of certain types of drugs, the practice is rapidly expanding. Tranquilizers, because of their apprehension-curbing nature, have proved helpful with patients undergoing major dental work. By relaxing the patient in this way, the dentist can go about his work more efficiently. Analgesics and antibiotics are also proven aids in dental therapy. They speed healing and prevent or fight infection. These new applications of prescription drugs demonstrate the diverse role pharmaceuticals play in our lives. Now, when your dentist prescribes, you receive the same benefits of modern medical research as when your physician prescribes. And when you have regular physical examinations don't neglect to have your teeth checked. Make an appointment with your dentist when you make one with your doctor. As a matter of fact, why not phone for an appointment today?

For the highest pharmaceutical standards, low prices consistent with quality and the personal attention you can always depend upon, bring your prescriptions to
